Can't Avoid Issue, Mansfield Says

Senate To Begin Debate On Civil Rights Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate begins its historic debate on the civil rights bill Monday.

"We have reached a point where we can no longer evade or avoid this issue," declared Democratic leader Mike Mansfield as he announced he was bringing the controversial measure to the floor.

The way was cleared Friday when the Senate, running behind its timetable, sent to the House by a 53-35 vote the administration's election-year cotton and wheat plan.

The civil rights measure, the most sweeping in this century, is certain to set off a Southern filibuster which some leaders believe may tie the Senate up for months.

But Mansfield said it was time to face the issue and dispose of it "one way or another."

He cautioned, though, that "no senator should be so disillusioned as to think this is going to be an easy matter. Nor should he think, no matter where he comes from, that there is going to be political profit in it."

An early skirmish was already in the offing.

A supporter of the measure, Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., said he would attempt Monday to send the bill to the Judiciary Committee for 10 days of hearings.

The administration had bypassed the Southern-led committee in order to get the bill before the Senate. But Morse said he felt it would be better to follow normal procedures.

Approval of two-thirds of the senators—67 if all 100 are present—is needed to invoke cloture, and the marginiis difficult to attain.

Morse—and Mansfield has in past expressed similar feelings—apparently feels it would be the better part of valor to follow the customary pattern and not irritate any support.

But Mansfield said he would fight Morse's plan.

Gen. MacArthur Heads Down Road To Recovery

WASHINGTON (AP) — General Douglas MacArthur — minus his gall bladder and a crop of dangerous gallstones—headed today down the road to recovery. And he could count his blessings.

The old soldier apparently fooled the top-flight surgeons who operated on him for three hours Friday at Walter Reed Army Hospital.

Lt. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, the Army's surgeon general, told a reporter later that the finding that MacArthur's symptoms of "obstructive jaundice" were due to a mechanical blockage of his bile system by gallstones rather than something worse, including cancer, was a surprise. Heaton had said before the operation that "we hope and pray" that this would be so—but he evidently had his fingers crossed.

Against the general—and in favor of a finding of malignancy—were his 84 years and a sharp loss of weight during the past few months while concurrently exhibiting a jaundiced skin.

But, while gallstones—ranging in size "from peas to big beans" in the words of Heaton—were found packed in MacArthur's gall bladder and many others were found plugging a key bile duct, that was the most critical finding.

"No evidences of malignancy were found" either in those organs or in other parts of the abdomen where the surgeons probed long and carefully.

Heaton and his fellow Army surgeons first freed the roadblock in the bile duct by cutting out the stones. Then they removed the stone-bearing gall bladder, lest other stones break loose later and re-plug the bile duct through which the vital bile fluid courses into the intestine to aid in digestion.

No further surgery is contemplated. Barring complications, the general could complete his recovery in two to four weeks, hospital officials said.

As he convalesces, he can keep busy reading thousands of letters coming in from various parts of the world—and looking at some of the truckloads of flowers that have been sent to him.

City Woman Knocked Down By Turning Car

A city woman escaped with minor injuries when knocked to the street Friday afternoon by a turning auto, police reported.

John R. Boswell, 17, of 241 W. Drury Ln. told officers he was making a left turn from E. 6th St. onto Broadway when he bumped the woman as she crossed the street and knocked her to the ground.

Boswell took the woman to the hospital for treatment.

Amato Sues In Wellsville Police Fight

Charles F. Amato of Wellsville, an extra patrolman, filed suit in Common Pleas Court at Lisbon Friday to compel Wellsville city officials to certify him as a full-time patrolman under Civil Service status.

The defendants in the action for a declaratory judgment are Mayor William Daugherty, Safety-Service Director Fred Baldasare and Edward Welch, Donald Miller and Richard Lloyd, members of the newly-appointed Civil Service Commission.

This is another chapter in the long standing police hassle at Wellsville. The first action in the case came when Joseph Heiney, who resigned from the force, filed for a writ of mandamus to force Mayor Daugherty and Baldasare to fill the vacancy.

There was an eligibility list of three men at the time, including Amato.

Later, Common Pleas Court ruled that the vacancy must be filled. The appointment was announced by the mayor, but a few days later the man resigned.

During this period, Amato filed an action to have the appointment set aside and himself appointed as the full-time officer. The man named to the post by the mayor resigned before this was cleared through court.

In the new petition, Amato claims he was sworn in as a patrolman by former Mayor William Shoub. He says that in November 1958 he took the Civil Service examination and placed third. He took two other examinations, November 1960 and February 1963, and placed first in these.

He says he has been working as an extra since 1959 but claims the defendants refuse to recognize his status qualified.

Suit Cleared On Land For St. Clair Job

City Will Ask Court To Fix Lot's Value, Remove Deadlock

Council set the wheels in motion Friday night for the first of at least three legal actions the city contemplates to obtain easements across private property and clear the way for construction of a new St. Clair Ave. from Princeton Ave. to the north city limits.

Members enacted unanimously a resolution declaring the city's intention of taking action in Common Pleas Court at Lisbon to appropriate an easement across the property of Dr. and Mrs. R. Jay Kinsey on St. Clair Ave. near Hill Blvd.

A separate piece of legislation that will authorize similar action to acquire two additional easements was not ready for presentation last night, but will be prepared in time for Council's next regular session March 16, Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper advised Council.

It is scheduled to authorize action to acquire easements on the property of Martin Sheerer, located at the crest of the St. Clair Ave. grade opposite Highland Colony, and on the property of Carl Gamble of Azalea Ave. which is needed in connection with construction of a storm sewer, Cooper said.

When the cases go to court, a jury will hear arguments from both sides, examine the property in question and then fix a price which the city must pay for its easements. The city started the actions because it was unable to agree on prices with the property - owners.

In response to a question, Cooper said he expects the first civil action — in the case of the Kinsey property — may be filed within two weeks. He added that law permits the court to advance such a case to the top of its calendar, giving it priority so that a public works project will not be delayed unduly.

Council's enactment of the legislation last night will lead to several other steps prescribed by the law. In the first, the city will serve written notice on Dr. and Mrs. Kinsey that it anticipates the appropriation action.

In the next step, Council will

Roads Blocked, Homes Get Water In Tri-State Area

The Ohio River was slowly receding today after exceeding district flood stages during the night, entering basements in about 15 homes in riverfront villages and closing main highways on both shores, and overflowing into low-lying areas.

The Montgomery Dam at Ohio View said the stream crested at 32.2 feet Friday afternoon at 5, remained stationary for about 10 hours, then began falling slowly. The rate of decline speeded up this morning.

East Liverpool's crest was estimated at 35 feet—3 above flood stage. The crest was higher downstream as the flood moved on, fed by emptying creeks.

Filled with huge chunks of ice from tributaries upstream yesterday afternoon, the swollen, muddy river resembled a giant chocolate soda until the ice floes had passed through the district in a 5- to 7-mph. current.

The river, swollen by recent rains and the spring thaw, crested at 37.2 feet last night at 10 at the Stratton superdam, according to Lockmaster Henry Conway. A crest of 35 to 36 feet had been predicted yesterday as Ohio Valley communities were forewarned of a possible serious flood.

However, the high water caused little property damage in this area. About a dozen homes in New Cumberland and several in Empire had flooded basements, some from sewer backwater, but the river closed portions of State Route 7 in Empire and State Route 2 in New Cumberland.

The River Rd. in East Liverpool, which carries Route 39 truck traffic into Pennsylvania, also was blocked, with traffic restricted to the Pennsylvania Ave. Hill Rd.

Although the river was receding, city officials decided to keep the River Rd. closed until a manhole at Ralstons Crossing can be checked.

Safety - Service Director Robert Vodrey said trucks were using the underpass but officials feared the manhole cover might have been lifted out of position and the wheel of an auto might strike the hole.

Ruby Case Making Legal History

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Jack Ruby's murder trial, past its third week today, has gone into the records as unique in legal history, inside and outside the courtroom.

It began as a strange case.

On Nov. 22, President John F. Kennedy was shot in Dallas. Lee Harvey Oswald was charged with murdering him. If Oswald had done it, what was his motive? Was there a conspiracy? And did it extend beyond the United States?

The answers may never be known.

For two days later, Jack Ruby, 52, girlie-show operator—whom the defense calls "a character around town" — burst through a crowd of police officers, jammed a pistol into Oswald's side and shot him down.

Motive?

His defense lawyers claim he had none. They say he was in an epileptic "rage state" induced by the shock of the president's death and didn't even know he had killed Oswald.

Police Sgt. P. T. Dean, however, says Ruby told him he had begun thinking about killing Oswald on the Friday night of Kennedy's death, more than 36 hours before the fatal shooting.

The state completed its case against Ruby Friday. The first defense witnesses were character witnesses who threw little or no light on the circumstances of Oswald's death.

Levy Renewal Sought

Hancock To Vote On School Issue

Hancock County residents will go to the polls Tuesday in a special election to decide a County Board of Education proposal for renewal of a school levy in effect for a number of years.

Passage would not mean additional tax burdens, but rather continuation for five years of a levy commonly called a "100 per cent" school levy on personal property and real estate that provides $1,135,989 annually for schools, or one-third of the board's operating budget.

A 60 PER CENT majority vote is required for passage.

In campaigning for passage of the levy, the board has cited these pertinent points:

A person whose home is assessed at $4,500, the average, would continue to pay $20.65 under the 100 per cent levy, $20.65 for a regular levy, and $8.73 for a bond issue, or a total of $50.03 each year for schools.

Broken down further, the 100 per cent levy means $133.16 for each child in the system, or half of the local revenue for schools.

Supt. Robert H. Hall declared "It is needless to say that to reduce the school budget by one - third or to deduct $133 from each child's education would be chaotic."

FUNDS DERIVED from the 100 per cent levy are used for general school expense, including costs for school buses, transportation, branch college in Weirton, textbooks, pupil equipment and supplies, repairs and maintenance of buildings, and salaries.

The rate of the levy follows: Class I property, $2.28 per $1,000 valuation; Class II, $4.59, and Classes III and IV, $9.18.

Thus a homeowner whose dwelling is assessed at $4,500, the average, would pay $4.59 for each $1,000 in valuation or $20.65 for the 100 per cent levy.

THE BOARD'S total budget for the current year is $3,268,898 and the 100 per cent levy provides $1,135,989 of this amount. The regular levy pro-

Marjorie Bretz Winner In Rural School Spelling

Two repeaters from the 1963 contest led eight spellers from rural school districts into the countywide spelldown March 20 after a slip of the tongue returned the individual championship to Fairfield - Waterford Friday afternoon at Franklin School in Summitville.

Marjorie Bretz, 13-year-old daughter of Andrew Bretz of New Waterford, won the title with the runnerup spot going to Ruth Stamp, also 13 and daughter of Robert Stamp of Salem R. D. 2, who is an eighth grader at United Local. Both received medals.

Marjorie won the chance for the crown when Ruth spelled "radical" with a "t." The bee ended when the Fairfield eighth grader correctly spelled "radioactivity."

In the 1963 contest, Marjorie finished third and Ruth placed seventh.

Also qualifying for the Lisbon finals to determine the county's five qualifiers for the regional finals in Canton were:

Gayle McCaskey, 14, an eighth grader at Beaver Local and daughter of Walter McCaskey of Lisbon R. D. 3; Wanda Rea, 13, United eighth grade, daughter of Ed Rea of Salem R. D. 3.

George Sturgeon, 13, Beaver Local seventh grader and son of Franklin Sturgeon of Elkton; Bill Humphrey, 14, United Local eighth grade, son of Karl Humphrey of Hanoverton R. Terrorized Ex-Dancer Of Ruby's

Was To Testify In Trial; Confusion Outside Courtroom

DALLAS (AP)—Seven prisoners staged a spectacular break from the Dallas County Jail Friday and terrorized a former strip-tease dancer who was about to testify in the Jack Ruby murder trial.

"Oh, my God, he's after me," cried 19-year-old Karen Lynn (Little Lynn) Bennett, as she saw an escapee brandishing what looked like a pistol.

Little Lynn, who worked for Ruby in his Carousel Club, is pregnant and several days overdue for birth.

Four men were recaptured shortly after the break about 3:30 p.m. The other three still were at large today.

The escape wrought shouting confusion in the hallway outside the courtroom where Ruby was on trial, but the session was not interrupted. Few inside were aware of the melee.

"Little Lynn" was being escorted to the women's room by Mrs. Melvin Belli, wife of the head defense lawyer, and Mrs. Rosemary Allen, a sheriff's deputy, when she saw an escapee with a pistol stuck in the back of a hostage, Mrs. Ruth Thornton.

Mrs. Allen shouted for help and then she and Mrs. Belli took "Little Lynn" into the protection of a stairwell, behind a steel door.

Lynn regained her composure after the excitement subsided, and was calm when she took the stand as a witness for the defense.

Sheriff Bill Decker said the escape began when seven prisoners pushed their way into an elevator as it stopped on the sixth floor near a table where the weekly soap ration was being distributed to prisoners and demanded to be taken to the second floor.

The purchase agreement was concluded late Friday.

She added she plans to operate the firm as a separate corporation to be an affiliate of Royal China, which also operates a division here and a plant known as Royalon at Logansport, Ind.

She plans limited production schedules that will make immediate use of the French-Saxon warehouse.

"This expansion move by Royal China is an expression of our faith in the American dinnerware industry where new techniques and production processes make us competitive from the standpoint of both quality and price," she asserted.

The officials of Royal said there would be no immediate effect on operations of the plant here.

The defendants in the action for a declaratory judgment are Mayor William Daugherty, Safety-Service Director Fred Baldasare and Edward Welch, Donald Miller and Richard Lloyd, members of the newly-appointed Civil Service Commission.

This is another chapter in the long standing police hassle at Wellsville. The first action in the case came when Joseph Heiney, who resigned from the force, filed for a writ of mandamus to force Mayor Daugherty and Baldasare to fill the vacancy.

There was an eligibility list of three men at the time, including Amato.

Later, Common Pleas Court ruled that the vacancy must be filled. The appointment was announced by the mayor, but a few days later the man resigned.

During this period, Amato filed an action to have the appointment set aside and himself appointed as the full-time officer. The man named to the post by the mayor resigned before this was cleared through court.

In the new petition, Amato claims he was sworn in as a patrolman by former Mayor William Shoub. He says that in November 1958 he took the Civil Service examination and placed third. He took two other examinations, November 1960 and February 1963, and placed first in these.

He says he has been working as an extra since 1959 but claims the defendants refuse to recognize his status qualified.

Two repeaters from the 1963 contest led eight spellers from rural school districts into the countywide spelldown March 20 after a slip of the tongue returned the individual championship to Fairfield - Waterford Friday afternoon at Franklin School in Summitville.

"This expansion move by Royal China is an expression of our faith in the American dinnerware industry where new techniques and production processes make us competitive from the standpoint of both quality and price," she asserted.

The officials of Royal said there would be no immediate effect on operations of the plant here.

Missing Boy Found Dead

LISBON — A 17-year-old Washingtonville boy who had been missing was found dead of a shotgun blast Friday and Dr. William Kolozsi, county coroner, ruled he had taken his own life.

William J. Watt, 17, who had been staying with his brother, Fred J. Watt Jr., on State Route 14, just east of Washingtonville, was found in a car, which had been set afire, in a pasture. The field is south of his brother's home and in a gully which couldn't be seen from the house.

Fred Watt reported to the State Highway Patrol last Saturday afternoon his brother was missing. He had left home Friday night and didn't return.

Dr. Kolozsi ruled death from a self - inflicted shotgun wound in the decomposed body was found in the car by sheriff's deputies who were called to investigate.

The body was removed to the Warrick Funeral Home in Columbiana then taken to Ashville, Pa., the home of his father. His mother is dead.

The youth was despondent after not being able to find work after discharge from Air Force reserve, authorities said.

Route 7 at Empire was closed at 4 p.m. yesterday. It was reopened about 4 a.m. today, according to the Wintersville State Highway Patrol.

Stretching seven miles in length, the ice mass took four hours to pass through East Liverpool.

In New Cumberland, where lowlying areas are flooded with each spring thaw, the basements of 10 to 15 buildings were filled with water, including the VFW Hall and a store on Chester St.

Squire John D. Herron, Red Cross disaster chairman, was on duty until 9 last night when the threat of serious flooding had passed. He reported three homes actually flooded. Backwater from Hardins Run which passes through the village blocked State Route 2 at the Dump Bridge at 7 last night, but some motorists splashed through without mishap.

Three New Cumberland families and a widow moved to the homes of relatives when the backwater from Hardins Run crept to near the first floors of their dwellings. They were the families of Hershel Ruley, Paul Harris and Robert Beattie, and Mrs. Goodwin, a widow.

The river began receding slowly last night at 11, about an hour after it crested. At 8 this morning, it had fallen by as much as 2 feet at some points.

However, there was plenty of evidence that high water had been here and gone.

The Mississippi - Ohio River Oil Terminal Co. on the River Rd., which escaped serious damage, surveyed piles of flotsam around its docks and barges. The company halted pumping operations yesterday afternoon at 3 and kept a watchful eye for the three barges drifting down the river from upstream.

The company spokesman added there was 2½ to 3 feet of water on the road at Ralstons Crossing, but not enough to prevent passage of autos.

The three barges were carried by the swift current and the ice jam 19 miles downstream to below the Montgomery Island Dam where they were retrieved by the Coast Guard.

Firemen went to Little England yesterday afternoon after receiving a report that two boys were on a raft in the river.

However, the investigation showed two men were salvaging articles from the river, firemen said.

The sewage pumps in the floodwall at Wellsville still were operating today. The pumps will continue until the river stage goes below 30 feet. The water reached 34 feet and 10 - inches Friday at Wellsville.

No damage was reported at Smiths Ferry. No roads were covered but water seeped into about two cellars in the area nearer the river. Water got to within about 4 feet of the deck of the bridge on Route 168 over Beaver Creek.

In the late 18th century choice pelts from sea otters brought as much as $2,500 each.

enact legislation determining to proceed with the appropriation action and directing the solicitor to file an application to have compensation determined for the owners.

The same steps will be followed, if necessary, in the case of the Sheerer and Gamble properties.

Council's resolution said the easement on the Kinsey land is required "for the purpose of providing an adequate system of drainage." It said the city seeks the easement for "installation of a sewer to conduct the waters from a natural watercourse now flowing across the lands of" the Kinseys. All the sewer will be underground except the top of a manhole and a catchbasin, it adds.

The same resolution calls for appropriation of an easement "to provide for the lateral support" of the street after it is widened "and to drain the natural drainage of the land so filled and to fill and contour the land."

It also provides that after the sewer is constructed and the lateral support and countour filling are completed, "said landowners will have the right and privilege to do anything in or upon said described lands as will not interfere with the sewer and lateral support."

The legislation contains an emergency clause, which means it will go into effect immediately after it is signed by Mayor Merrill D. Hall.

Thirty - eight work agreements and easements will be required in all to clear the way for the St. Clair Ave. job, estimated to cost $846,000.

It calls for construction of a 36-foot reinforced concrete pavement, plus a complete storm drainage system. The Federal Bureau of Public Roads will pay about 50 per cent of the cost. The project has been sought for four years.

The State Highway Department will award the contract for the job, but the state will not have any money invested. The city's share will be made up of general municipal funds and the proceeds of $10-a-foot assessments against property - owners.

County commissioners have pledged up to $75,000, if it's required, to help meet the city's share. If the city's share is less than anticipated, all or part of the county's contribution will be returned.

The whole timetable of the St. Clair job is geared to completion of work in obtaining the easements and work agreements.

Thirty - one days before the Highway Department can open bids, it must have a certificate from the city to prove that all the property or property rights have been acquired.

About six weeks ago, it was anticipated the state might open bids sometime in March. But because of delay in obtaining the easements and work agreements, the contract date now is uncertain.

Child In Irondale Injured By Auto

An Irondale child, hit and rolled beneath a car near his home Friday at 6:40 p.m., was in "fair" condition today at City Hospital with multiple injuries.

Gregory Rohall, 2½, was hit by a car driven by a neighbor, Howard Nicholson of Saline St., according to Village Marshal Oliver Nicholson.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Rohall of Saline St., suffered multiple abrasions of the face, body, legs and feet and possible fractures of the skull and right foot.

The boy was playing ball in the Rohall yard with some other children. The ball went onto the street and the child darted out of the yard and between two cars.

Nicholson had just started to pull from a parking spot when he hit the boy. The child rolled back underneath the car and the rear wheel was still on the child's foot when the car stopped.

Health Board Reports

Heart Disease Accounted For 153 Deaths In County

LISBON — Heart disease was again the leading cause among the 277 deaths in the Columbiana County Health Department district in 1963, the county Board of Health said today in its annual report.

Heart ailments accounted for 153 deaths. Other causes were cerebral, 42; cancer, 40; respiratory disease, six; nephritis, five; self-inflicted, seven; pneumonia, 12; auto accidents, three; non-auto accidents, four, and other causes, five.

Births for the year totaled only 12, but since most are at hospitals inside the cities, they are thus outside the county health district.

Sewage continues to be one of the major problems of the health department and tanks not operating properly constitute a serious health hazard. In some nuisances resulting from septic tanks, there is nothing that can be done except to recommend the establishment of a sewer district. Two sewer districts are in the process of planning at present.

The past year, 408 septic tank permits were issued and a total of 545 tank and sewage inspections were made. The department issued 16 septic cleaner permits during the year.

During the year the department made 247 food service inspections and issued 200 food service licenses. The staff received 71 nuisance complaints and made 141 investigations and followups.

Garbage haulers, whose equipment must be approved, received 18 permits from the department. There were seven dump licenses issued and 87 investigations were made.

The department issued 487 plumbing permits and made 601 inspections.

School visits by the nurse and doctor totaled 155, there was 111 school clinics, the staff gave 201 first grade physicals, 2,311 inoculations, 583 polio shots, 1,947 smallpox vaccinations, 1,280 mantoux TB tests, 86 bus drivers received physical examinations, 3,671 hearing tests and 4,232 vision tests were given and eight monthly nurses conferences were held. There were 31 school inspections.

There were no epidemics or outbreaks of communicable disease in the county last year. Communicable diseases reported were:

Measles, 743; chicken pox, 146; mumps, 140; whooping cough, eight; infectious hepatitis, nine; meningitis, one; scarlet fever, eight, and venereal, 23. No polio, diphtheria or typhoid fever was reported.

The county health nurse gave 259 Mantoux tests to County Jail prisoners and 1,280 in schools. The eighth and 12th grades of all schools were tested.

Eight expectant mothers attended pre-natal classes held in county health office by the county nurse.

The county health board's total expense was $41,702.29 and it received $41,711.11, leaving a balance of $8.82 for the year. Restaurant program receipts showed $3,473.02 and expenditures $2,351.77, for a carryover of $1,120.25.

A breakdown of expenditures shows $32,916.47 in salaries, $2,611.92 for travel and $6,173.90 for operating expenses.

Post Office's Alley Request Gets Approval

If all the abutting property is acquired as a site for a new East Liverpool Post Office, Council then will act to vacate Peach Alley between W. 3rd St. and W. Church Alley, the members agreed Friday night.

The assurance will be sent in a letter to the regional office of the Post Office Department at Cincinnati, which advised Council Monday night it has selected as the site for the new building the section of W. 3rd St. from the old Salvation Army Citadel West to Jackson St. From W. 3rd St., the site extends northward to W. Church Alley, which parallels W. 3rd.

The request for possible vacation of Peach Alley was given Council because the narrow north-south thoroughfare bisects the proposed site near its east end.

The Post Office Department said in a letter to Council all the affected properties have been purchased or optioned, except one. It anticipates the building will be erected by private capital for lease to the federal government. Construction may be completed by the end of 1964. The cost is estimated at $400,000 to $500,000.

All seven members agreed to vote for vacation of the alley if all the abutting property is acquired for the new Post Office. They were polled by President George E. Willshaw. Council also directed Clerk Lawrence Applegate to write a letter to the regional office advising of its action.

Council was careful to put a "when and if" clause in its agreement to close the alley.

A delegation of four W. 3rd St. property - owners conferred briefly with Council in a caucus session, explaining they feared the city intended to proceed immediately with closing of the alley — regardless of the eventual outcome of the Post Office project.

Councilmen replied the alley will be closed only when all the abutting property has been acquired for the new building.

Hancock Car Upsets

NEW CUMBERLAND—Mary A. Uker, 56, of River Ave., New Cumberland escaped unhurt when her sedan went over an embankment and upset Friday afternoon at 5 at Scott's Ln. on State Route 2 near Pughtown. The Hancock County sheriff's office listed $500 damage to the car.

Levy

vides $1,135,989 and state aid, $996,920.

Although Hancock County has the most streamlined school system in West Virginia, residents paid only $322 per pupil last year, compared to the national average of $432, a difference of $110, the board has pointed out.

The board also furnishes all textbooks, workbooks and materials for $5 per pupil for all grades with funds from the 100 per cent levy. "It is not a matter of whether you can afford to vote for the program, but rather can you afford not to vote for the program." school officials commented in various talks in support of the levy.

GENERALLY speaking, county residents have nearly always voted to support levies and bond issues for school improvements.

In recent years, the lone measure rejected was a $10 per capita tax to finance a $1 million school building program in 1957. It was defeated by 4,757-2,638.

In 1958, the $1 million school bond issue for construction of the new school in Pughtown and improvements to seven buildings passed by a vote of 3,739-968.

In 1959, there was a special election for approval of a 50 per cent levy to raise $400,000 annually for a five-year period for classroom improvements, and it was approved, 2,153-1,279.

The $5 million bond issue that resulted in construction of the new high schools at Oak Glen and Weirton, and a primary school in Chester was approved in 1961 by a vote of 4,584-1,310.

Precinct 1, Chester City Hall; Precinct 2, Chester Central School; Precinct 3, Chester Junior High School; Precinct 4, Chester Washington School; Precinct 5, Grandview School; Precinct 6, Jack Mercer residence at Middle Run; Precinct 7, Newell Jefferson School; Precinct 8, Wells Junior High School, and Precinct 9, James R. Norris residence in Congo.

In Clay District, precincts are: Precinct 11, Mrs. Hobbs home, Hardins Run; Precinct 12, Squire John D. Herron's office; Precinct 13, New Cumberland School; Precinct 14, Bambrick house on Ridge Ave., and Precinct 15, Pughtown school.

Polls will be open from 6:30 a. m. to 7:30 p. m.

Homes Emptied As Precaution In Oxygen Escape

Several residents in the immediate area of the south junction of Route 7 and 213, just north of the Steubenville city limits, were evacuated late Friday night after a tractor - trailer unit loaded with liquid oxygen overturned and started leaking.

The Wintersville State Highway Patrol said the area still was blocked off by midmorning although the main danger has passed.

The rig, driven south on Route 213 by Myron A. Hammonds of Kingsville, Ohio, went off the highway when his brakes failed as he headed down the steep grade.

The rig struck a guardrail, the trailer section flipped over and the tractor unit went into an embankment.

It was loaded with 400,000 cubic feet of liquid oxygen, which is highly flammable and explosive.

Three oxygen experts were summoned, along with several fire departments, the Jefferson County Sheriff's deputies and the patrol officers.

One man said there was "considerable danger" from 11:30 p. m. to 1:30 a.m. today.

Several valves were opened to allow the liquid oxygen to leak out.

It makes a vapor and, being extremely cold, creates a frost on things it touches. It was like a gigantic Christmas tree at one time, an officer commented.

Health Board Reports

Heart Disease Accounted For 153 Deaths In County

LISBON — Heart disease was again the leading cause among the 277 deaths in the Columbiana County Health Department district in 1963, the county Board of Health said today in its annual report.

Heart ailments accounted for 153 deaths. Other causes were cerebral, 42; cancer, 40; respiratory disease, six; nephritis, five; self-inflicted, seven; pneumonia, 12; auto accidents, three; non-auto accidents, four, and other causes, five.

Births for the year totaled only 12, but since most are at hospitals inside the cities, they are thus outside the county health district.

Sewage continues to be one of the major problems of the health department and tanks not operating properly constitute a serious health hazard. In some nuisances resulting from septic tanks, there is nothing that can be done except to recommend the establishment of a sewer district. Two sewer districts are in the process of planning at present.

The past year, 408 septic tank permits were issued and a total of 545 tank and sewage inspections were made. The department issued 16 septic cleaner permits during the year.

During the year the department made 247 food service inspections and issued 200 food service licenses. The staff received 71 nuisance complaints and made 141 investigations and followups.

Garbage haulers, whose equipment must be approved, received 18 permits from the department. There were seven dump licenses issued and 87 investigations were made.

The department issued 487 plumbing permits and made 601 inspections.

School visits by the nurse and doctor totaled 155, there was 111 school clinics, the staff gave 201 first grade physicals, 2,311 inoculations, 583 polio shots, 1,947 smallpox vaccinations, 1,280 mantoux TB tests, 86 bus drivers received physical examinations, 3,671 hearing tests and 4,232 vision tests were given and eight monthly nurses conferences were held. There were 31 school inspections.

There were no epidemics or outbreaks of communicable disease in the county last year. Communicable diseases reported were:

Measles, 743; chicken pox, 146; mumps, 140; whooping cough, eight; infectious hepatitis, nine; meningitis, one; scarlet fever, eight, and venereal, 23. No polio, diphtheria or typhoid fever was reported.

The county health nurse gave 259 Mantoux tests to County Jail prisoners and 1,280 in schools. The eighth and 12th grades of all schools were tested.

The county health board's total expense was $41,702.29 and it received $41,711.11, leaving a balance of $8.82 for the year. Restaurant program receipts showed $3,473.02 and expenditures $2,351.77, for a carryover of $1,120.25.

A breakdown of expenditures shows $32,916.47 in salaries, $2,611.92 for travel and $6,173.90 for operating expenses.

Post Office's Alley Request Gets Approval

If all the abutting property is acquired as a site for a new East Liverpool Post Office, Council then will act to vacate Peach Alley between W. 3rd St. and W. Church Alley, the members agreed Friday night.

The assurance will be sent in a letter to the regional office of the Post Office Department at Cincinnati, which advised Council Monday night it has selected as the site for the new building the section of W. 3rd St. from the old Salvation Army Citadel West to Jackson St. From W. 3rd St., the site extends northward to W. Church Alley, which parallels W. 3rd.

The request for possible vacation of Peach Alley was given Council because the narrow north-south thoroughfare bisects the proposed site near its east end.

The Post Office Department said in a letter to Council all the affected properties have been purchased or optioned, except one. It anticipates the building will be erected by private capital for lease to the federal government. Construction may be completed by the end of 1964. The cost is estimated at $400,000 to $500,000.

All seven members agreed to vote for vacation of the alley if all the abutting property is acquired for the new Post Office. They were polled by President George E. Willshaw. Council also directed Clerk Lawrence Applegate to write a letter to the regional office advising of its action.

Council was careful to put a "when and if" clause in its agreement to close the alley.

A delegation of four W. 3rd St. property - owners conferred briefly with Council in a caucus session, explaining they feared the city intended to proceed immediately with closing of the alley — regardless of the eventual outcome of the Post Office project.

Councilmen replied the alley will be closed only when all the abutting property has been acquired for the new building.

Levy

vides $1,135,989 and state aid, $996,920.

Although Hancock County has the most streamlined school system in West Virginia, residents paid only $322 per pupil last year, compared to the national average of $432, a difference of $110, the board has pointed out.

The board also furnishes all textbooks, workbooks and materials for $5 per pupil for all grades with funds from the 100 per cent levy. "It is not a matter of whether you can afford to vote for the program, but rather can you afford not to vote for the program." school officials commented in various talks in support of the levy.

GENERALLY speaking, county residents have nearly always voted to support levies and bond issues for school improvements.

In recent years, the lone measure rejected was a $10 per capita tax to finance a $1 million school building program in 1957. It was defeated by 4,757-2,638.

In 1958, the $1 million school bond issue for construction of the new school in Pughtown and improvements to seven buildings passed by a vote of 3,739-968.

In 1959, there was a special election for approval of a 50 per cent levy to raise $400,000 annually for a five-year period for classroom improvements, and it was approved, 2,153-1,279.

The $5 million bond issue that resulted in construction of the new high schools at Oak Glen and Weirton, and a primary school in Chester was approved in 1961 by a vote of 4,584-1,310.

Precinct 1, Chester City Hall; Precinct 2, Chester Central School; Precinct 3, Chester Junior High School; Precinct 4, Chester Washington School; Precinct 5, Grandview School; Precinct 6, Jack Mercer residence at Middle Run; Precinct 7, Newell Jefferson School; Precinct 8, Wells Junior High School, and Precinct 9, James R. Norris residence in Congo.

In Clay District, precincts are: Precinct 11, Mrs. Hobbs home, Hardins Run; Precinct 12, Squire John D. Herron's office; Precinct 13, New Cumberland School; Precinct 14, Bambrick house on Ridge Ave., and Precinct 15, Pughtown school.

Polls will be open from 6:30 a. m. to 7:30 p. m.

Homes Emptied As Precaution In Oxygen Escape

Several residents in the immediate area of the south junction of Route 7 and 213, just north of the Steubenville city limits, were evacuated late Friday night after a tractor - trailer unit loaded with liquid oxygen overturned and started leaking.

The Wintersville State Highway Patrol said the area still was blocked off by midmorning although the main danger has passed.

The rig, driven south on Route 213 by Myron A. Hammonds of Kingsville, Ohio, went off the highway when his brakes failed as he headed down the steep grade.

The rig struck a guardrail, the trailer section flipped over and the tractor unit went into an embankment.

It was loaded with 400,000 cubic feet of liquid oxygen, which is highly flammable and explosive.

Three oxygen experts were summoned, along with several fire departments, the Jefferson County Sheriff's deputies and the patrol officers.

One man said there was "considerable danger" from 11:30 p. m. to 1:30 a.m. today.

Several valves were opened to allow the liquid oxygen to leak out.

It makes a vapor and, being extremely cold, creates a frost on things it touches. It was like a gigantic Christmas tree at one time, an officer commented.

A Case Of Injured Pride

The fashionable guessing game of the hour is the vagaries of President Charles de Gaulle, but the game is wearing out.

Its appeal is fading because Gaullist whims are following a predictable pattern. They no longer are puzzling. They are beginning to be transparent.

President de Gaulle is a case of injured pride. He never has recovered from the slight received from President Franklin D. Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill when they bypassed him after the fall of France in World War II.

Everybody who knew the depth of his hurt then knew he would assert himself against the United States and Britain if he ever had the chance. France's need for strong leadership gave him the chance. Everything he has done since he became president of France in 1959 has been leading up to what he is doing now.

HE IS ASSERTING himself by asserting the prestige of his nation.

American opinion is shocked. But there is no reason for Americans to be surprised. President de Gaulle merely is taking advantage of human nature.

Men do not thrive in a one-opinion environment. They relish a contrary view. President de Gaulle is offering one alternative to the leadership of the United States.

The other alternative is the Communist-oriented leadership of the Soviet Union and the Chinese People's Republic.

There are, however, many nations which occupy a middle ground between the two ideologies.

IF THEY want to have as little to do with the Communist-oriented powers as possible and at the same time avoid commitment to the United States, Gaullist France is their bet.

Its president is their spokesman. His leadership crystallizes their identity as a third force in international power politics. They can depend on de Gaulle to keep the United States from establishing a clear monopoly of non-Communist power.

There is even a sardonic chuckle in the way Americans are exhibiting the injury to their own pride that has been caused by the injured pride of President de Gaulle.

It is as if the U.S. government never had thought of the possibility someone who was neither a Russian nor a Chinese Communist might undercut its leadership someday.

Go, Leopards

The leopard, or Felis pardus, declares Webster's dictionary, is a "large and ferocious spotted cat."

In the 1963-64 basketball season, 24 teams have found Midland's high school hardwood quintet typifying quite well their namesake by being large and if not always ferocious, certainly determined.

Monday Hank Kuzma's young Felis pardus go for the Western Pennsylvania championship against Uniontown. They carry with them the best wishes of not only the area basketball fans, but of everyone in the Tri-State District who respects the skill and zeal of a real group of winners.

First, What Is Poverty?

One unavoidable decision that must be made by the new federal agency President Johnson will create to run his administration's war on poverty fascinates us.

The agency will have to decide where to draw the line between poverty and sufficiency. It cannot avoid this. Otherwise, it would have to go on the assumption that poverty is a relative condition, not an absolute condition. This has tripped up millions of us who were relatively poor but thought we were well off.

This became a dilemma as long ago as the Great Depression when recipients of work relief drove to their duties in autos that would have represented an affluent living for Europeans.

Before that, poverty could be defined in a general way as a condition so bad it tugged at the heart strings of the charitable, provided it was called to their attention. It was to plug the loophole this left open that President Franklin D. Roosevelt issued his edict that no one in the United States should be allowed to starve.

After that, no one starved. But, on the other hand, outright starvation was unknown before that, too.

Between having nothing and affluence lies a vast state of being, ranging from far below average to far above, with poverty existing somewhere in the below-average group. But who is poor? Only those who say they're poor, or is poverty so absolute condition it could be determined by a computer?

Someone will have to know before the Johnson administration can do much more than emit noble sounds about a war on poverty. The enemy first must be identified and the noncombatants and refugees delivered to safety.

Nothing Else Makes Sense

U.S. treasury officials are hard put to defend the interest equalization tax on foreign securities as an effective measure to improve our balance of payments deficit.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon admits that in the long run the outflow of American capital to foreign countries is more than balanced by the inflow of income earned by that capital, but claims this does not meet the immediate problem in our balance of payments.

This, he contends, can only be met by his proposed temporary tax on foreign securities.

But if the immediate problem is urgent, which it certainly is, why do we continue to give away billions of dollars in foreign aid?

Anyone who opposes foreign investment on the ground that it hurts our balance of payments should be unalterably opposed to foreign aid.

Any other position simply doesn't make sense.

Cotton Corners

By Truman Twill

Dear Nephew: Have you ever wondered how many of your fellow patriots could point to South Viet Nam on a map of the world? Don't sneer. I have to think twice, too.

But this I know and all of us should think about it — South Viet Nam is snuggled into the lap of China. All of us know where China is. Especially if we weren't born yesterday.

It contains about one-fifth of all the people on the face of planet Earth and is so big no one — not even a Chinese — ever has seen all of it.

Those of us who weren't born yesterday once thought of China as the strongest potential nation on earth. Our oil companies regarded it as a major market and did such a landoffice business that empty oil cans were the commonest evidence of western civilization in China.

WE SENT missionaries to China — to save the "heathen Chinee." We laid down and maintained an "open door" policy when John Hay was secretary of state. Our colleges were full of Chinese students, sent here to get the advantage of U.S.-style education.

China was our ally in World War II—one of the Big Four. Then something happened that shattered us. Chiang Kai-shek, who had started out as a Communist, turned out to be only the aging chief of a defeated army holed up on the offshore island of Formosa. We turned China's picture to the wall and pretended it wasn't.

We were still pretending it wasn't there on Nov. 26, 1950, when Gen. Douglas MacArthur, having disregarded warnings about what would happen if Manchuria was in danger, found his United Nations army confronted by what eventually turned out to be a million Chinese soldiers. That was a mess to remember.

Now, 14 years later, we're still acting as if we didn't know one-fifth of the population of the world lived in China bordering Viet Nam, where we are beleaguered in a section called South Viet Nam. It keeps reminding me of South Korea, especially when I read that our soldiers want to step up the war by invading North Viet Nam.

WE READ reams of stuff about South Viet Nam, which is a marshy place of no importance in itself but of vital importance when its location next to China is considered. Yet, we are acting the same way we acted when we were floundering in Korea — as if we'd never heard of China.

Your aunt and I have chewed over this monstrous self-deception at length and have reached the only conclusion possible. Our fine, wonderful government has no more idea than a jackrabbit what to do about anything as enormous as the People's Republic of China so it is pretending all those Chinese will disappear if no one notices them.

This is standard procedure in the modern world. If you don't know how to cope with it, pretend not to notice it. But a million Chinese pouncing on our men in Korea couldn't be ignored. They'd be hard to shut out of the picture in Viet Nam, too. Aside from this, we are fine here and hope you are the same. Don't take any Chinese money.

A Poor Anti-Guerrilla Weapon

Guerrilla Guns Remain Mystery

By Tom Lambert

A mustached Turkish Cypriot pokes his head around the corner of a whitewashed house in a Cyprus village, then jerks back as a bullet from a Greek Cypriot's rifle slams into the wall near his face. The Turk hoists a double-barrelled shotgun and fires a blast of ineffective buckshot in return.

Outside a sweating Mekong River delta village, a South Vietnamese soldier spins, chokes and falls as a Communist guerrilla bullet cuts him down. The guerrilla wriggles from his river-bank hideout and slips back into a jungled banana grove, carefully cradling his well-tended submachinegun.

In a series of other countries, jungles, deserts, villages and mountains around the world — in Burma, Yeman, Angola and Sarawak — more gunfire crackels as guerrillas and armed irregulars fight their enemies.

THE PRESENCE and actions of the guerrillas surprises nobody. American newspaper readers made their acquaintance during World War II. Since then, in a succession of Communist, nationalist and other outbreaks of revolution or discontent, the guerrillas have stayed in the headlines.

But one nagging and intriguing question about them persists: Where and how do they get their guns?

In the last few years, guns have been flowing steadily to guerrillas, revolutionaries and warring factions in the world's trouble spots, the traffic shows no sign of slackening.

Guns from the Soviet Union and Red China — some of them originally American weapons — have been flown or shipped to North Viet Nam, then smuggled into Laos and South Viet Nam for guerrilla use.

Guns made in Czechoslovakia traveled to Tunisia and Morocco for the Algerian army and later, when the French left, from Algeria to Leopoldville for distribution to guerrilla forces trying to drive the Portuguese out of Angola.

Guns supplied officially to Iraq by the British and Soviet governments trickled north from Baghdad to Iraq's Kurdish insurgents. Other weapons were smuggled to the Kurds, some presumably from Russia.

The guns used by guerrillas today come from a variety of armories.

They come from among other places, Czech or Belgian factories, Red China, Soviet excess sticks, United States arsenals, British plants and Cuban warehouses.

They come not always directly, of course, and often along routes and in transactions which cannot be documented conclusively. Most nations, including the United States are reticent about their traffic in guns.

THE ORIGINAL deals and the plans for the weapons often go awry.

Thus, the American supported South Vietnamese soldier may have been killed by an American gun. The guerrilla may have obtained it when his unit ambushed American-equipped South Vietnamese Marines.

Arms deals have backfired for the Russians also. Some Soviet-equipped Iraqi army units turned their weapons against followers of the late Prime Minister Abdul Karim Kassem, a Moscow favorite, when he was deposed and later executed.

Although the Soviet Union has exported guns for revolutionary and guerrilla use — and the United States has countered with arms for anti-Communist forces — Czechoslovakia and Cuba seem to be among the prime weapons' suppliers for Communist - directed or supported "national liberation" and Leftist fighting forces.

According to unconfirmed reports, guns are being smuggled into Cyprus from Greece, Turkey and the United Arab Republic.

Greek and Turkish military units rotated on and off the island leave some of their weapons behind as they go home. Other reports say Cyprus is studded with caches of arms used by the islanders when they were battling the British several years ago.

OSLO

The seaman's home away from home — the Norwegian Seamen's Church — is 100 years old this year.

The centenary will be celebrated in Norway and in the 32 ports all over the globe where the churches are located.

High point of the anniversary year will be the opening of the King Olav Chapel in the new European oil port 25 miles from Rotterdam, the Netherlands, on Sept. 11. Dutch shipowners and industrial leaders provided 65 per cent of the cost.

"We have to move with the ships, build new stations where the traffic has moved on," said a spokesman for the private organization running the churches.

Since World War II, 17 new churches have been built, in ports which did not have one before.

The Lutheran churches serve the 64,000 men operating Norway's huge merchant fleet of about 2,300 ships. Seamen of all nationalities are welcome. The churches provide recreational facilities and organize sightseeing tours, sports events and parties. Newspapers from home are flown in. Every ship arriving in port is visited by a pastor.

About 40 pastors man the stations, together with lay assistants and house mothers. They are a tough and realistic group.

"We have to meet the men as men, and sailors don't take to phonies," said one seamen's pastor.

The work is financed by 3,100 groups in Norway and by the seamen themselves, but this year Parliament has contributed $142,257 as a centenary gift. The 1962 budget was $928,000. Local authorities and organizations around the world also help out with the expenses.

On Norway's national day, May 17, there will be celebrations in the first Norwegian Seamen's church ever built, at Leith, Scotland. A general assembly of the organization will be held in Bergen Aug. 28-31. Representatives of churches in the United States, Britain, West Germany, Sweden and Denmark will take part. King Olav V, high protector of seamen's churches, will be present.

Ports now under consideration for new churches include Port Newark, N.J., where the mission owns a plot; Seattle, Wash., and Vancouver, B.C. Construction of a new church in Trinidad will begin this year.

'64 Political Questions Seen Unanswerable

All of us who are supposed to follow political trails are being asked hundreds of times such questions as these: "Will Johnson be elected in November?" "Will Bobby Kennedy be his running mate?" Who will get the Republican nomination in July?"

I suggest that there be one answer to all these questions: "Remember the calamitous case of Sonny Liston."

I have the utmost respect for sports writers. The better ones are masters of colorful, lively English prose. Grantland Rice and Bill Corum, to mention only masters of the past, were superb literary craftsmen. They were writing for an immense audience which demanded clarity of expression. They had to be understood and they had to be interesting.

The late John Lardner, my colleague in Newsweek, wrote prose which excited hopeless envy in me. His father, Ring, also a one-time sports writer, richly earned a place in American literature.

MY REGRET as I contemplate the red faces of those who were in Miami on Feb. 25 is that they were all so sure of the end before it began. They would answer that they were merely responding to public demands. If they were right, they could write another piece saying they were right before it happened. If they were wrong, the public would forget. Or, as some have said since, "We wuz robbed."

One respected sports writer, on the day after, blamed the buildup of Liston on the promoters' publicity. But the promoters could scarcely have succeeded if the writers for the press hadn't created the fabricated image of Liston's invincibility.

Their present embarrassment is due to the fact that they failed to resist public demands for prophecy. To write that "anything may happen" would be dull stuff.

Most political writers resist the public pressure for prediction. I have consistently belonged to that wary group. Long observation of the capricious tides of public preferences has taught me that no one can be sure of what will happen in a political convention or an election.

SINCE I HAVE wanted to maintain a degree of public confidence, I have been unwilling to take risks. Only in 1948 did I approach the brink. I said that Dewey would be elected "barring a miracle or a disaster." That saved me embarrassment after the event, for Democrats believed it had been a miracle and Republicans considered it a disaster.

The political commentator deals with very serious business. In sports there have been many heavyweight champions in the past 30-odd years. Some were worthy fellows and some were over-rated clowns. But our lives have not been affected by who happens to wear what sports writers call the "heavyweight crown."

Presidents, however, are measurably the masters of our destiny. Their selection by voters moved by capricious or shallow preferences affects us all.

Moreover, we know all too well how unforeseeable events can change the course of political history. On Nov. 22 last when I boarded a plane in Milwaukee, a companion asked me, "Will Kennedy be re-elected?" I answered that no one could tell what might happen. And when I arrived in Newark the tragic news was everywhere.

THERE IS ENOUGH happening in the present to satisfy any legitimate public interest. Those whose experience and closeness to the scene give authority to what they write have a responsibility to interpret events.

They can supply elements of significance, sort out the irrelevant, and underline what is important. This should keep them busy and provide for the public guidance.

Beyond that, when prophecy rears its head, awesome political decisions become mere sporting events.

These observations of mine are not presented as the essence of wisdom. They are merely the expressions of a very cautious individual. I repeat: When you ask who will win in November, remember Sonny Liston.

De Gaulle Steps Faster

By James Marlov

French President Charles de Gaulle's step-by-step rebuffs to the United States and Britain are not new. The only difference between De Gaulle now and a few years ago is that he is stepping faster.

His basic policy—his assertion of French independence from American leadership — was already French policy before he was called back to office as premier in June 1958. But he has truly broadened it.

The Associated Press reported from London Thursday night that diplomatic sources said his envoys in various capitals are openly suggesting Western European nations dissassociate themselves from the United States in every way possible.

A month after he took office six years ago he announced France would not accept a nuclear test-ban treaty unless it was linked with a disarmament inspection system. This, of course, was a dream of the future.

He said France would make itself a nuclear power. But a year before he became premier French Defense Minister Chaban-Delmas, a Gaullist, said France would never accept a ban imposed by its allies against French manufacture of nuclear weapons.

He said "we have need of America but America also has need of us."

So De Gaulle was only repeating what was already policy and last year, when he refused to join the American-Soviet-British limited nuclear test-ban treaty, he was only restating an old position.

But De Gaulle for a good while after taking office—he became president for a seven-term in 1959—didn't badger the United States as much as he did later for one obvious, and one possible, reason.

The obvious reason was that he had his hands full trying to bring to peaceful conclusion the Algerian rebellion which had France split in half. He didn't succeed in that until 1962.

It is possible De Gaulle was reluctant to have been as defiant or unpleasant with President Eisenhower, from 1958 to 1961, as he was from 1961 until now with President Kennedy and Johnson.

Eisenhower was an international hero and De Gaulle might have injured himself in an entanglement with the man who led the liberation of Europe. Kennedy and Johnson were unknowns when De Gaulle went to work on them.

Nevertheless, he did badger Eisenhower, too. In 1959 he suggested that France, by destroying the nuclear monopoly of the United States and the Soviet Union, would create a third force in the world and provide "equilibrium."

Also in 1959 he made clear France wanted no part of having its armies integrated with its neighbors' in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. He said France would command its own armies. In 1960 France tested its first atomic bomb in the Sahara.

It seemed to come as a surprise to some this year that De Gaulle was stretching across the Atlantic to open up new ties with Latin America, even arranging to visit some of the countries there.

But he had suggested to 20 ambassadors from Latin-American nations in 1961 that France and their countries establish a "united and renovated Latin world." So what he is saying now is repetition.

He increased the pace of his Independence last year in a triple stroke: by refusing to join the nuclear test-ban treaty, banning Britain from the European Common Market, and proposing the neutralization of Viet Nam.

He offered French help to the very country which France had held as a colony since the 19th century and from which it was driven out in 1954 because it lacked the military strength to hold it.

Johnson was hardly in office before De Gaulle hit him by recognizing Red China. He said this was just being realistic. And he said there could be no peace in Southeast Asia unless China was a party agreeing to it.

Everything he has done since he became president of France in 1959 has been leading up to what he is doing now.

HE IS ASSERTING himself by asserting the prestige of his nation.

American opinion is shocked. But there is no reason for Americans to be surprised. President de Gaulle merely is taking advantage of human nature.

Men do not thrive in a one-opinion environment. They relish a contrary view. President de Gaulle is offering one alternative to the leadership of the United States.

The other alternative is the Communist-oriented leadership of the Soviet Union and the Chinese People's Republic.

There are, however, many nations which occupy a middle ground between the two ideologies.

IF THEY want to have as little to do with the Communist-oriented powers as possible and at the same time avoid commitment to the United States, Gaullist France is their bet.

Its president is their spokesman. His leadership crystallizes their identity as a third force in international power politics. They can depend on de Gaulle to keep the United States from establishing a clear monopoly of non-Communist power.

There is even a sardonic chuckle in the way Americans are exhibiting the injury to their own pride that has been caused by the injured pride of President de Gaulle.

It is as if the U.S. government never had thought of the possibility someone who was neither a Russian nor a Chinese Communist might undercut its leadership someday.

Go, Leopards

In the 1963-64 basketball season, 24 teams have found Midland's high school hardwood quintet typifying quite well their namesake by being large and if not always ferocious, certainly determined.

Monday Hank Kuzma's young Felis pardus go for the Western Pennsylvania championship against Uniontown. They carry with them the best wishes of not only the area basketball fans, but of everyone in the Tri-State District who respects the skill and zeal of a real group of winners.

First, What Is Poverty?

One unavoidable decision that must be made by the new federal agency President Johnson will create to run his administration's war on poverty fascinates us.

The agency will have to decide where to draw the line between poverty and sufficiency. It cannot avoid this. Otherwise, it would have to go on the assumption that poverty is a relative condition, not an absolute condition. This has tripped up millions of us who were relatively poor but thought we were well off.

This became a dilemma as long ago as the Great Depression when recipients of work relief drove to their duties in autos that would have represented an affluent living for Europeans.

Before that, poverty could be defined in a general way as a condition so bad it tugged at the heart strings of the charitable, provided it was called to their attention. It was to plug the loophole this left open that President Franklin D. Roosevelt issued his edict that no one in the United States should be allowed to starve.

After that, no one starved. But, on the other hand, outright starvation was unknown before that, too.

Between having nothing and affluence lies a vast state of being, ranging from far below average to far above, with poverty existing somewhere in the below-average group. But who is poor? Only those who say they're poor, or is poverty so absolute condition it could be determined by a computer?

Someone will have to know before the Johnson administration can do much more than emit noble sounds about a war on poverty. The enemy first must be identified and the noncombatants and refugees delivered to safety.

Nothing Else Makes Sense

U.S. treasury officials are hard put to defend the interest equalization tax on foreign securities as an effective measure to improve our balance of payments deficit.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon admits that in the long run the outflow of American capital to foreign countries is more than balanced by the inflow of income earned by that capital, but claims this does not meet the immediate problem in our balance of payments.

This, he contends, can only be met by his proposed temporary tax on foreign securities.

But if the immediate problem is urgent, which it certainly is, why do we continue to give away billions of dollars in foreign aid?

Anyone who opposes foreign investment on the ground that it hurts our balance of payments should be unalterably opposed to foreign aid.

Any other position simply doesn't make sense.

Dear Nephew: Have you ever wondered how many of your fellow patriots could point to South Viet Nam on a map of the world? Don't sneer. I have to think twice, too.

But this I know and all of us should think about it — South Viet Nam is snuggled into the lap of China. All of us know where China is. Especially if we weren't born yesterday.

It contains about one-fifth of all the people on the face of planet Earth and is so big no one — not even a Chinese — ever has seen all of it.

Those of us who weren't born yesterday once thought of China as the strongest potential nation on earth. Our oil companies regarded it as a major market and did such a landoffice business that empty oil cans were the commonest evidence of western civilization in China.

WE SENT missionaries to China — to save the "heathen Chinee." We laid down and maintained an "open door" policy when John Hay was secretary of state. Our colleges were full of Chinese students, sent here to get the advantage of U.S.-style education.

China was our ally in World War II — one of the Big Four. Then something happened that shattered us. Chiang Kai-shek, who had started out as a Communist, turned out to be only the aging chief of a defeated army holed up on the offshore island of Formosa. We turned China's picture to the wall and pretended it wasn't.

We were still pretending it wasn't there on Nov. 26, 1950, when Gen. Douglas MacArthur, having disregarded warnings about what would happen if Manchuria was in danger, found his United Nations army confronted by what eventually turned out to be a million Chinese soldiers. That was a mess to remember.

Now, 14 years later, we're still acting as if we didn't know one-fifth of the population of the world lived in China bordering Viet Nam, where we are beleaguered in a section called South Viet Nam. It keeps reminding me of South Korea, especially when I read that our soldiers want to step up the war by invading North Viet Nam.

WE READ reams of stuff about South Viet Nam, which is a marshy place of no importance in itself but of vital importance when its location next to China is considered. Yet, we are acting the same way we acted when we were floundering in Korea — as if we'd never heard of China.

Your aunt and I have chewed over this monstrous self-deception at length and have reached the only conclusion possible. Our fine, wonderful government has no more idea than a jackrabbit what to do about anything as enormous as the People's Republic of China so it is pretending all those Chinese will disappear if no one notices them.

This is standard procedure in the modern world. If you don't know how to cope with it, pretend not to notice it. But a million Chinese pouncing on our men in Korea couldn't be ignored. They'd be hard to shut out of the picture in Viet Nam, too. Aside from this, we are fine here and hope you are the same. Don't take any Chinese money.

A Poor Anti-Guerrilla Weapon

Guerrilla Guns Remain Mystery

By Tom Lambert

A mustached Turkish Cypriot pokes his head around the corner of a whitewashed house in a Cyprus village, then jerks back as a bullet from a Greek Cypriot's rifle slams into the wall near his face. The Turk hoists a double-barrelled shotgun and fires a blast of ineffective buckshot in return.

Outside a sweating Mekong River delta village, a South Vietnamese soldier spins, chokes and falls as a Communist guerrilla bullet cuts him down. The guerrilla wriggles from his river-bank hideout and slips back into a jungled banana grove, carefully cradling his well-tended submachinegun.

In a series of other countries, jungles, deserts, villages and mountains around the world — in Burma, Yeman, Angola and Sarawak — more gunfire crackels as guerrillas and armed irregulars fight their enemies.

THE PRESENCE and actions of the guerrillas surprises nobody. American newspaper readers made their acquaintance during World War II. Since then, in a succession of Communist, nationalist and other outbreaks of revolution or discontent, the guerrillas have stayed in the headlines.

But one nagging and intriguing question about them persists: Where and how do they get their guns?

In the last few years, guns have been flowing steadily to guerrillas, revolutionaries and warring factions in the world's trouble spots, the traffic shows no sign of slackening.

Guns from the Soviet Union and Red China — some of them originally American weapons — have been flown or shipped to North Viet Nam, then smuggled into Laos and South Viet Nam for guerrilla use.

Guns made in Czechoslovakia traveled to Tunisia and Morocco for the Algerian army and later, when the French left, from Algeria to Leopoldville for distribution to guerrilla forces trying to drive the Portuguese out of Angola.

Guns supplied officially to Iraq by the British and Soviet governments trickled north from Baghdad to Iraq's Kurdish insurgents. Other weapons were smuggled to the Kurds, some presumably from Russia.

The guns used by guerrillas today come from a variety of armories.

They come from among other places, Czech or Belgian factories, Red China, Soviet excess sticks, United States arsenals, British plants and Cuban warehouses.

They come not always directly, of course, and often along routes and in transactions which cannot be documented conclusively. Most nations, including the United States are reticent about their traffic in guns.

THE ORIGINAL deals and the plans for the weapons often go awry.

Thus, the American supported South Vietnamese soldier may have been killed by an American gun. The guerrilla may have obtained it when his unit ambushed American-equipped South Vietnamese Marines.

Arms deals have backfired for the Russians also. Some Soviet-equipped Iraqi army units turned their weapons against followers of the late Prime Minister Abdul Karim Kassem, a Moscow favorite, when he was deposed and later executed.

Although the Soviet Union has exported guns for revolutionary and guerrilla use — and the United States has countered with arms for anti-Communist forces — Czechoslovakia and Cuba seem to be among the prime weapons' suppliers for Communist - directed or supported "national liberation" and Leftist fighting forces.

According to unconfirmed reports, guns are being smuggled into Cyprus from Greece, Turkey and the United Arab Republic.

Greek and Turkish military units rotated on and off the island leave some of their weapons behind as they go home. Other reports say Cyprus is studded with caches of arms used by the islanders when they were battling the British several years ago.

OSLO

The seaman's home away from home — the Norwegian Seamen's Church — is 100 years old this year.

The centenary will be celebrated in Norway and in the 32 ports all over the globe where the churches are located.

High point of the anniversary year will be the opening of the King Olav Chapel in the new European oil port 25 miles from Rotterdam, the Netherlands, on Sept. 11. Dutch shipowners and industrial leaders provided 65 per cent of the cost.

"We have to move with the ships, build new stations where the traffic has moved on," said a spokesman for the private organization running the churches.

Since World War II, 17 new churches have been built, in ports which did not have one before.

The Lutheran churches serve the 64,000 men operating Norway's huge merchant fleet of about 2,300 ships. Seamen of all nationalities are welcome. The churches provide recreational facilities and organize sightseeing tours, sports events and parties. Newspapers from home are flown in. Every ship arriving in port is visited by a pastor.

About 40 pastors man the stations, together with lay assistants and house mothers. They are a tough and realistic group.

"We have to meet the men as men, and sailors don't take to phonies," said one seamen's pastor.

The work is financed by 3,100 groups in Norway and by the seamen themselves, but this year Parliament has contributed $142,257 as a centenary gift. The 1962 budget was $928,000. Local authorities and organizations around the world also help out with the expenses.

On Norway's national day, May 17, there will be celebrations in the first Norwegian Seamen's church ever built, at Leith, Scotland. A general assembly of the organization will be held in Bergen Aug. 28-31. Representatives of churches in the United States, Britain, West Germany, Sweden and Denmark will take part. King Olav V, high protector of seamen's churches, will be present.

Ports now under consideration for new churches include Port Newark, N.J., where the mission owns a plot; Seattle, Wash., and Vancouver, B.C. Construction of a new church in Trinidad will begin this year.

'64 Political Questions Seen Unanswerable

All of us who are supposed to follow political trails are being asked hundreds of times such questions as these: "Will Johnson be elected in November?" "Will Bobby Kennedy be his running mate?" Who will get the Republican nomination in July?"

I suggest that there be one answer to all these questions: "Remember the calamitous case of Sonny Liston."

I have the utmost respect for sports writers. The better ones are masters of colorful, lively English prose. Grantland Rice and Bill Corum, to mention only masters of the past, were superb literary craftsmen. They were writing for an immense audience which demanded clarity of expression. They had to be understood and they had to be interesting.

The late John Lardner, my colleague in Newsweek, wrote prose which excited hopeless envy in me. His father, Ring, also a one-time sports writer, richly earned a place in American literature.

MY REGRET as I contemplate the red faces of those who were in Miami on Feb. 25 is that they were all so sure of the end before it began. They would answer that they were merely responding to public demands. If they were right, they could write another piece saying they were right before it happened. If they were wrong, the public would forget. Or, as some have said since, "We wuz robbed."

One respected sports writer, on the day after, blamed the buildup of Liston on the promoters' publicity. But the promoters could scarcely have succeeded if the writers for the press hadn't created the fabricated image of Liston's invincibility.

Their present embarrassment is due to the fact that they failed to resist public demands for prophecy. To write that "anything may happen" would be dull stuff.

Most political writers resist the public pressure for prediction. I have consistently belonged to that wary group. Long observation of the capricious tides of public preferences has taught me that no one can be sure of what will happen in a political convention or an election.

SINCE I HAVE wanted to maintain a degree of public confidence, I have been unwilling to take risks. Only in 1948 did I approach the brink. I said that Dewey would be elected "barring a miracle or a disaster." That saved me embarrassment after the event, for Democrats believed it had been a miracle and Republicans considered it a disaster.

The political commentator deals with very serious business. In sports there have been many heavyweight champions in the past 30-odd years. Some were worthy fellows and some were over-rated clowns. But our lives have not been affected by who happens to wear what sports writers call the "heavyweight crown."

Presidents, however, are measurably the masters of our destiny. Their selection by voters moved by capricious or shallow preferences affects us all.

Moreover, we know all too well how unforeseeable events can change the course of political history. On Nov. 22 last when I boarded a plane in Milwaukee, a companion asked me, "Will Kennedy be re-elected?" I answered that no one could tell what might happen. And when I arrived in Newark the tragic news was everywhere.

THERE IS ENOUGH happening in the present to satisfy any legitimate public interest. Those whose experience and closeness to the scene give authority to what they write have a responsibility to interpret events.

They can supply elements of significance, sort out the irrelevant, and underline what is important. This should keep them busy and provide for the public guidance.

Beyond that, when prophecy rears its head, awesome political decisions become mere sporting events.

These observations of mine are not presented as the essence of wisdom. They are merely the expressions of a very cautious individual. I repeat: When you ask who will win in November, remember Sonny Liston.

De Gaulle Steps Faster

By James Marlov

French President Charles de Gaulle's step-by-step rebuffs to the United States and Britain are not new. The only difference between De Gaulle now and a few years ago is that he is stepping faster.

His basic policy—his assertion of French independence from American leadership — was already French policy before he was called back to office as premier in June 1958. But he has truly broadened it.

The Associated Press reported from London Thursday night that diplomatic sources said his envoys in various capitals are openly suggesting Western European nations dissassociate themselves from the United States in every way possible.

A month after he took office six years ago he announced France would not accept a nuclear test-ban treaty unless it was linked with a disarmament inspection system. This, of course, was a dream of the future.

He said France would make itself a nuclear power. But a year before he became premier French Defense Minister Chaban-Delmas, a Gaullist, said France would never accept a ban imposed by its allies against French manufacture of nuclear weapons.

He said "we have need of America but America also has need of us."

So De Gaulle was only repeating what was already policy and last year, when he refused to join the American-Soviet-British limited nuclear test-ban treaty, he was only restating an old position.

But De Gaulle for a good while after taking office—he became president for a seven-term in 1959—didn't badger the United States as much as he did later for one obvious, and one possible, reason.

The obvious reason was that he had his hands full trying to bring to peaceful conclusion the Algerian rebellion which had France split in half. He didn't succeed in that until 1962.

It is possible De Gaulle was reluctant to have been as defiant or unpleasant with President Eisenhower, from 1958 to 1961, as he was from 1961 until now with President Kennedy and Johnson.

Eisenhower was an international hero and De Gaulle might have injured himself in an entanglement with the man who led the liberation of Europe. Kennedy and Johnson were unknowns when De Gaulle went to work on them.

Nevertheless, he did badger Eisenhower, too. In 1959 he suggested that France, by destroying the nuclear monopoly of the United States and the Soviet Union, would create a third force in the world and provide "equilibrium."

Also in 1959 he made clear France wanted no part of having its armies integrated with its neighbors' in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. He said France would command its own armies. In 1960 France tested its first atomic bomb in the Sahara.

It seemed to come as a surprise to some this year that De Gaulle was stretching across the Atlantic to open up new ties with Latin America, even arranging to visit some of the countries there.

But he had suggested to 20 ambassadors from Latin-American nations in 1961 that France and their countries establish a "united and renovated Latin world." So what he is saying now is repetition.

He increased the pace of his independence last year in a triple stroke: by refusing to join the nuclear test-ban treaty, banning Britain from the European Common Market, and proposing the neutralization of Viet Nam.

He offered French help to the very country which France had held as a colony since the 19th century and from which it was driven out in 1954 because it lacked the military strength to hold it.

Johnson was hardly in office before De Gaulle hit him by recognizing Red China. He said this was just being realistic. And he said there could be no peace in Southeast Asia unless China was a party agreeing to it.

The Lenten Story

BY WOODI ISHMAEL

THE KISS OF DEATH

Judas had no trouble finding Jesus in the Garden of Gethsemani. He knew the place well, for the disciples often met there. With him were a great crowd, carrying swords, clubs, lanterns and torches.

"Whomever I kiss, that is He. Lay hold of Him," he said to the chief priests. And he went straight up to Jesus and said, "Hail, Rabbi!" and kissed Him.

But Jesus said to him, "Judas, dost thou betray the Son of Man with a kiss?" (Luke XXII:48)

And to the arresting party, He said: "As against a robber have you come out, with swords and clubs. When I was daily with you in the temple, you did not stretch forth your hands against Me. But this is your hour, and the power of darkness."

Greece Mourns King Paul; Constantine Ascends Throne

ATHENS (AP) — Greece lamented today the death of King Paul I, but confidence in the nation's future tempered grief as his 23-year-old son, Constantine, ascended the throne of the Hellenes.

He became the world's youngest reigning monarch at an hour of national crisis over the dispute between the Greek and Turkish communities on Cyprus.

King Paul, 62 and in the 17th year of his reign, died Friday of a series of complications arising after surgery for a stomach ulcer Feb. 21.

Women wept in the streets as church bells tolled and a lone cannon atop Lycabetus Hill boomed an hourly salute to the dead ruler.

Expressions of regret poured in from world leaders, including President Johnson and U.N. Secretary-General U Thant.

King Constantine—a 6-foot-3 sportsman already beloved by his people as "Tino"—has spent years being groomed for the throne.

Constantine took the oath of service to the Greek people in a solemn candlelight ceremony in the Athens Palace Friday night and his first broadcast to his people was a message from the death chamber of his father:

"This morning I conveyed to my father the feeling of the Greek people who were praying for him and my father said: 'I thank them and say goodby to them' "

At King Paul's bedside with Constantine in the last moments were Queen Frederika, now the queen mother, and Constantine's 22 - year - old sister, Princess Irene, now the crown princess and next in line for the throne as long as the new ruler remains childless.

Constantine is engaged to beautiful Princess Anne-Marie of Denmark, 17. They will be married in January unless court mourning interferes.

At Tatoi, doctors were preparing the body of Paul to be borne into Athens Sunday. For three days the body will lie in state in the Metropolis, the Greek Orthodox Cathedral.

The cream of Europe's royalty is expected in Athens Thursday for the state funeral. Paul will be buried on the Tatoi Palace grounds.

Salvation Army Pair To Continue Revivals

Revival services are continuing at the Salvation Army with the Rev. and Mrs. R. C. Stable of Montoursville, Pa., in charge.

The services, held nightly at 7, will continue through March 15.

The citadel band, under the direction of Arch Craven, and the Songsters, directed by Mrs. Lois Mercer, participate in the service with special selections.

Rev. and Mrs. Stabler conducted a series of meetings here in 1962. Maj. William Hathorn is in charge.

Mill Chorus To Sing At Church In Beaver

The Crucible Steel Male Chorus, under the direction of Fred Martell, will present a sacred concert at Burry's Church on State Route 68, near Zelienople, Sunday at 8 p. m. It is known as "the Church By the Side of the Road."

Mrs. Eileen Brown of East Liverpool will assist in two numbers and Ernest Lowe will sing a request selection, "Holy City" (Adams). Ralph Falconer will be organ accompanist.

Individual pans for baking brioche are available; they look rather like small bowls with a sharply fluted edge.

Clevelander Will Be Guest

The Rev. Charles H. Evans, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal Church of Cleveland, will be guest speaker for the fourth in a series of five weekly Lenten programs Wednesday at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church.

A parish family coverdish supper will be served at 6 p. m. by Circle I, of which Mrs. Ada Dyke is president.

The guest speaker and his wife will demonstrate how contemporary drama raises the religious issues of today.

He received his B.A. degree from Western Reserve University and was graduated from Bexley Hall, the Divinity School of Kenyon College, in 1953. He has served St. Mark's church since graduating from the seminary. He was formerly chairman of the Children's Division of the Department of Christian Education for the Diocese of Ohio.

The Rev. D. R. Salisbury Jr. is rector.

Director Set For Retreat

Fr. Thomas E. McCarthy, as assistant pastor of St. Aloysius Catholic Church, will serve as director for the Day of Recollection to be held Sunday. The same program is being held in 13 other centers of the Youngstown Diocese.

Fr. Richard Reis, a teacher of the Cardinal Mooney Catholic High School in Youngstown, is retreat master.

The program will begin at 2:15 p. m., followed with the first conference at 2:30, and prayer for youth at 3.

The second conference will begin at 3:10, after which the Stations of the Cross will be said, followed with recess and Confessions.

At 4:15, the third conference will begin, followed with Confessions and Rosary. Mass will be celebrated at 5.

Other participating churches include St. Ann's in East End, Immaculate Conception, Wellsville; St. Philip Neri, Dungannon; St. Agatha Mission, West Point; St. Patrick, Salineville, and St. John's, Summitville.

The Lenten Story

BY WOODI ISHMAEL

THE KISS OF DEATH

Judas had no trouble finding Jesus in the Garden of Gethsemani. He knew the place well, for the disciples often met there. With him were a great crowd, carrying swords, clubs, lanterns and torches.

"Whomever I kiss, that is He. Lay hold of Him," he said to the chief priests. And he went straight up to Jesus and said, "Hail, Rabbi!" and kissed Him.

But Jesus said to him, "Judas, dost thou betray the Son of Man with a kiss?" (Luke XXII:48)

And to the arresting party, He said: "As against a robber have you come out, with swords and clubs. When I was daily with you in the temple, you did not stretch forth your hands against Me. But this is your hour, and the power of darkness."

Greece Mourns King Paul; Constantine Ascends Throne

ATHENS (AP) — Greece lamented today the death of King Paul I, but confidence in the nation's future tempered grief as his 23-year-old son, Constantine, ascended the throne of the Hellenes.

He became the world's youngest reigning monarch at an hour of national crisis over the dispute between the Greek and Turkish communities on Cyprus.

King Paul, 62 and in the 17th year of his reign, died Friday of a series of complications arising after surgery for a stomach ulcer Feb. 21.

Women wept in the streets as church bells tolled and a lone cannon atop Lycabetus Hill boomed an hourly salute to the dead ruler.

Expressions of regret poured in from world leaders, including President Johnson and U.N. Secretary-General U Thant.

King Constantine—a 6-foot-3 sportsman already beloved by his people as "Tino"—has spent years being groomed for the throne.

Constantine took the oath of service to the Greek people in a solemn candlelight ceremony in the Athens Palace Friday night and his first broadcast to his people was a message from the death chamber of his father:

"This morning I conveyed to my father the feeling of the Greek people who were praying for him and my father said: 'I thank them and say goodby to them' "

At King Paul's bedside with Constantine in the last moments were Queen Frederika, now the queen mother, and Constantine's 22 - year - old sister, Princess Irene, now the crown princess and next in line for the throne as long as the new ruler remains childless.

Constantine is engaged to beautiful Princess Anne-Marie of Denmark, 17. They will be married in January unless court mourning interferes.

At Tatoi, doctors were preparing the body of Paul to be borne into Athens Sunday. For three days the body will lie in state in the Metropolis, the Greek Orthodox Cathedral.

The cream of Europe's royalty is expected in Athens Thursday for the state funeral. Paul will be buried on the Tatoi Palace grounds.

Salvation Army Pair To Continue Revivals

Revival services are continuing at the Salvation Army with the Rev. and Mrs. R. C. Stable of Montoursville, Pa., in charge.

The services, held nightly at 7, will continue through March 15.

The citadel band, under the direction of Arch Craven, and the Songsters, directed by Mrs. Lois Mercer, participate in the service with special selections.

Rev. and Mrs. Stabler conducted a series of meetings here in 1962. Maj. William Hathorn is in charge.

Mill Chorus To Sing At Church In Beaver

The Crucible Steel Male Chorus, under the direction of Fred Martell, will present a sacred concert at Burry's Church on State Route 68, near Zelienople, Sunday at 8 p. m. It is known as "the Church By the Side of the Road."

Mrs. Eileen Brown of East Liverpool will assist in two numbers and Ernest Lowe will sing a request selection, "Holy City" (Adams). Ralph Falconer will be organ accompanist.

Individual pans for baking brioche are available; they look rather like small bowls with a sharply fluted edge.

Clevelander Will Be Guest

The Rev. Charles H. Evans, rector of St. Mark's Episcopal Church of Cleveland, will be guest speaker for the fourth in a series of five weekly Lenten programs Wednesday at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church.

A parish family coverdish supper will be served at 6 p. m. by Circle I, of which Mrs. Ada Dyke is president.

The guest speaker and his wife will demonstrate how contemporary drama raises the religious issues of today.

He received his B.A. degree from Western Reserve University and was graduated from Bexley Hall, the Divinity School of Kenyon College, in 1953. He has served St. Mark's church since graduating from the seminary. He was formerly chairman of the Children's Division of the Department of Christian Education for the Diocese of Ohio.

The Rev. D. R. Salisbury Jr. is rector.

Director Set For Retreat

Fr. Thomas E. McCarthy, as assistant pastor of St. Aloysius Catholic Church, will serve as director for the Day of Recollection to be held Sunday. The same program is being held in 13 other centers of the Youngstown Diocese.

Fr. Richard Reis, a teacher of the Cardinal Mooney Catholic High School in Youngstown, is retreat master.

The program will begin at 2:15 p. m., followed with the first conference at 2:30, and prayer for youth at 3.

The second conference will begin at 3:10, after which the Stations of the Cross will be said, followed with recess and Confessions.

At 4:15, the third conference will begin, followed with Confessions and Rosary. Mass will be celebrated at 5.

Other participating churches include St. Ann's in East End, Immaculate Conception, Wellsville; St. Philip Neri, Dungannon; St. Agatha Mission, West Point; St. Patrick, Salineville, and St. John's, Summitville.

New Beechwood Minister Named

The Rev. Delmar Logston of Lawrenceville, who has been serving the Grandview Mission for the past two years, has become pastor of the Beechwood Free Methodist Church.

He succeeds the Rev. S. H. Estell, pastor of the Oakland Free Methodist Church, who had been supplying the Beechwood church as an affiliate of the Oakland church. With its own pastor, it will now have full status.

Rev. Logston, who became a member of the Free Methodist faith recently, is employed at the Mackintosh - Hemphill Division at Midland. The Grandview congregation near Chester will continue to meet while arranging for a successor for the pulpit.

72 Attend PTA Event In Chester

Seventy-two attended a meeting of the Chester Primary School Parent - Teacher Association Thursday night at which Charles McKinney, assistant superintendent of Hancock County schools, spoke on the proposed school levy up for renewal Tuesday.

He was introduced by Mrs. Clayton Hobbs Jr.

A white elephant sale during the meeting netted $41. It was reported 86 members are enrolled to date.

Hearing Planned In Entry Charge

Ronald Lee Adkins of East Liverpool, released from County Jail Thursday after serving a term for auto theft, is scheduled for a Municipal Court hearing Wednesday on a burglary charge.

Adkins appeared before Judge Samuel M. Chertoff Friday on an affidavit signed by Capt. Robert Pyle alleging he broke into the Iron City Distributing Co. on S. Market St. Sept. 17 "with intent to commit larceny." Adkins was accompanied by his counsel, Atty. George A. Aronson. No plea was entered. The court fixed bond at $1,000, which Adkins posted.

Capt. Pyle said Adkins had been serving a 60-day term on an auto theft charge, imposed in Common Pleas Court. When the balance of the sentence was suspended, Adkins paid the court costs and was returned to East Liverpool to face the burglary count.

Lisbon Police Detain 3 Youths As Runaways

LISBON — Three 15-year-old Pittsburgh boys with one-way tickets to Massillon were removed from a Greyhound bus about 11:30 Friday night after police received word from Pittsburgh authorities that two of them were runaways.

The third was also detained as his parents didn't know he was missing.

Fathers of the three arrived in Lisbon about 2 a. m. today and returned the boys.

Negley Youth Given Term In County Jail

LISBON — A Negley youth was sentenced and a Pittsburgh man was ordered to appear Friday for sentencing, when his motion for new trial was refused, at hearings yesterday before Judges Raymond S. Buzzard and Joel H. Sharp.

Robert J. Gorby, 21, was given 15 days in the County Jail after he pleaded guilty to malicious destruction of property in damaging pay phones in Rogers. He was indicted by the April 1963 Grand Jury and was sentenced in Pennsylvania for a similar offense. County authorities had to wait until he was released in Pennsylvania. He pleaded guilty before Judge Buzzard.

William H. Eddings, 35, of Pittsburgh will be sentenced for burglary of the armory in Salem. He was indicted by the September 1963 Grand Jury and was convicted by a jury last Oct. 28. His request for a new trial yesterday was refused by Judge Sharp.

13 Arrested In New York Racial Strife

NEW YORK (AP) — Civil Rights demonstrators staged a sit-down in police headquarters and a lie-down on a Triborough Bridge roadway Friday. Thirteen persons were arrested, traffic was snarled and headquarters revamped its security measures.

Police Commissioner Michael J. Murphy warned that his department "will not submit to rule by pressure or mob."

The demonstrations occurred a few hours apart. First came a protest outside Murphy's office in the downtown headquarters building against alleged police brutality. Three demonstrators handcuffed themselves to iron grillwork. Police cut them free and booked them, along with four sympathizers, on misdemeanor charges.

At the Manhattan approach to the Triborough Bridge, which connects Manhattan with the Bronx and Queens, about 40 demonstrators clogged the roadway and backed up traffic for 20 minutes during the evening rush hour.

Six demonstrators sat down in the roadway, then lay down and refused to move. The six, their arms linked, were dragged away by police. The four men and two women — three of them Negroes — were booked on misdemeanor charges.

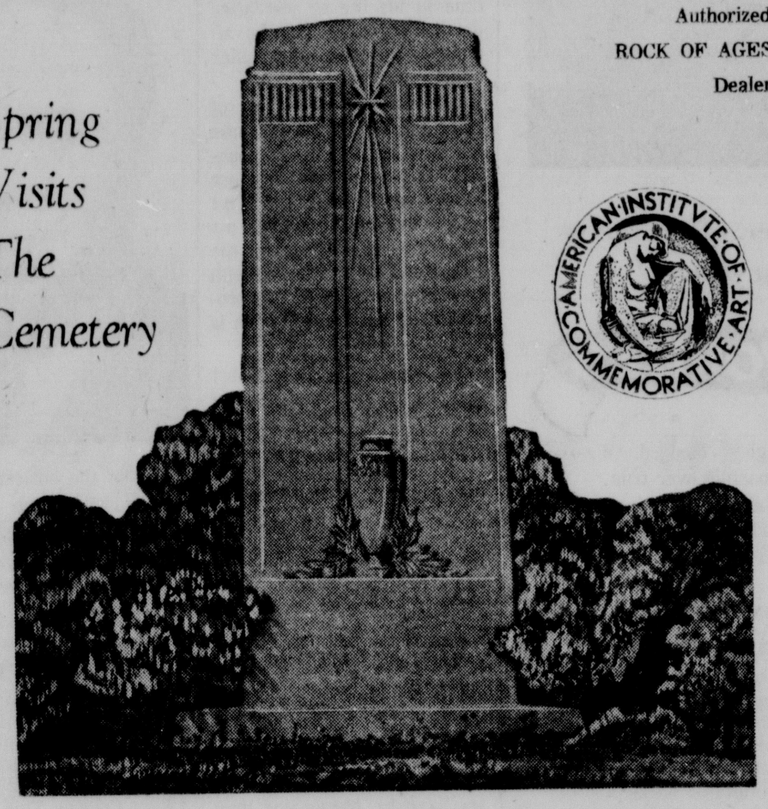
Spring Visits The Cemetery



IT COMES, awakening the earth for a natural resurrection.

Soon, nature covers the first path made to an unmarked grave. The traditional cemetery is more than a last resting place. It is a record and a memorial. It unites families who might otherwise be put to rest almost unknown with only a tiny bronze plate for indentification. We do not sell cemetery lots, however, we offer a complete consultant service—from the choice of a suitable cemetery site to design and erection of the family Memorial. Why not let us assist you in selecting a Monument from the many beautiful designs on display in our showrooms, where you can shop in comfort and privacy? No sales talk—no hurry—you find as so many other Monument buyers have found—that Graham and Wagner can serve you best . . . and serve you most economically!

THE POWER TO STAY

An anchor seems like dead weight, doesn't it?

But what mariner would sail without it? For an anchor is not dead weight. It commands the tremendous force of gravity in a wild, raging sea. It can grip solid land to fight driving wind or swirling current!

A few men have thought they could go farther faster without religious faith . . . until the squalls found them drifting helplessly on bitter shoals!

God gave us forces of motion and progress. We see . . . aspire . . . achieve.

But the power to go is treacherous without the power to stay.

So God gave us the Truth our churches offer every human heart.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Spring Visits The Cemetery

Soon, nature covers the first path made to an unmarked grave. The traditional cemetery is more than a last resting place. It is a record and a memorial. It unites families who might otherwise be put to rest almost unknown with only a tiny bronze plate for indentification. We do not sell cemetery lots, however, we offer a complete consultant service—from the choice of a suitable cemetery site to design and erection of the family Memorial. Why not let us assist you in selecting a Monument from the many beautiful designs on display in our showrooms, where you can shop in comfort and privacy? No sales talk—no hurry—you find as so many other Monument buyers have found—that Graham and Wagner can serve you best . . . and serve you most economically!

Pupils Are Busy For Bees

Tension Mounts For Area's Spelldowns

By BYRON EELLS

"They give you a big word and then slip you a little definition," is Mike Rolley's reaction to spelling bees.

The McKinley sixth grader still remembers the "i" he forgot in "conscientious" in the 1963 finals when he finished second to Gary Barringer, who went on to capture the regional crown and place third in the national finals in Washington.

The 11-year-old is confident, but he will face some stiff competition from 25 other spellers intent in following Gary's lead to win honor for himself and his school. Now a ninth grader at Westgate, Gary is ineligible for further competition.

Knotted and twisted handkerchiefs, clenched fists and other outward signs of nervousness will be evident as the spellers begin the first round next Friday to determine the city's eight entrants in the countywide bee March 20 at Lisbon where 32 spellers will battle it out for the right to represent Columbiana Couny in the Canton spelldown.

ALL OF THE YOUNGSTERS will face the same 25 to 1 odds against their winning. But some like Mike who have been through the experience once will rate a slight edge, chiefly because they should be calmer.

They include Deborah Banfield and Malcolm Ogilvie, both of Westgate Junior High, who will get their last chance, and Vicky Dawson, Klondyke sixth grader.

Debbie and Vicky both participated in the 1963 finals and Ogilvie, who stumbled in the school spelldown last year, participated in the regional finals at Canton in 1962.

Obviously, ability is important but calmness, confidence and luck also play major roles.

VIRTUALLY ALL of the spellers are tense as the bee gets under way. However, some youngsters literally scare themselves out of the competion, stumbling on words they ordinarily could spell easily.

Some stand in almost a trance, finally get out the required letters, shrug their shoulders and prepare to accept defeat only to gaze in wonderment when the bell doesn't ring.

Others, a little too cocky, hastily spell a seemingly easy word, only to forget a letter and hear the judges' gong signal them to the sidelines.

The luck of the draw also is important. More than one youngster has gone down because a speller in a preceding round was eliminated.

OTHERS JUST don't recognize the pronunciation although it is correct. Studying among themselves, they mispronounce the word to each other. Then, when given the right pronunciation the word escapes them.

But the alert spellers can aid their own cause by asking the pronouncer to define the word and use it in a sentence. That helps them determine whether it is singular or plural and whether it is present or past tense.

And they'll also realize there will be some old bee standbys in the word list like "accommodate", "recommend", "commemorate", "attacked", and "occurrence".

May the best spellers win!

Gary Barringer, left, 1963 national third-place Spelling Bee winner, offers tips to Michael Rolley, City Bee hopeful who finished second last year.

Wellsville Arts Club Active

The Wellsville Arts Club, formed to promote cultural programs for women, observed its 20th anniversary just a few months ago.

The purpose of the club, which meets on the first Tuesday of each month from October through May, is:

"To promote a broader culture among women,

"To promote study along a definite line,

"To promote the social life of the club, and

"To promote greater service to the community wherever opportunity presents itself."

Mrs. Mary Rahter was instrumental in the founding of the organization and remains active today.

Several women used to meet at the exchange desk of the Carnegie Library to discuss books.

The desire was expressed for an informal discussion group where views might be treated more expansively.

Members of the Four Arts Club of Toronto were invited to the home of Mrs. Rahter to answer questions concerning their organization and their qualifications for membership. Along with Mrs. Rahter were Helen Dickey, Lu Smith, Helen Stevenson and Louise Taylor.

It was decided to form a club, and prospective members were invited to a meeting Nov. 4, 1943. Twenty-two attended. A temporary chairman and committees were named.

The club was finally formed Nov. 16, 1943, at a meeting at the Elks Lodge. The club was granted permission to use the lodge as a permanent meeting place.

The first president was Miriam Martz. At the end of the first year, there were 43 members. After a rather "slow and sometimes hectic," start the club programs gained momentum.

The programs have been widely varied. During the early part of the club a ways and means committee was utilized to raise money. Later, this policy was ended.

The club has presented concerts at the high school, backed and sponsored milk funds for needy families and school children, provided aid for an art student, John McIntire who has since made a name for himself as an artist and teacher, and made numerous donations to various campaigns.

The members have had their collective knowledge increased, their homes redecorated by several experts, their faces and hats recreated, their handwriting and characters analyzed, and their spirits lifted with music, fun and food.

A scrapbook is kept of all activities. Mrs. James Laughlin is currently president of the club which numbers 86.

The club officers said plans are for the organization to go on to "horizons unlimited."

The Law

PROBATE COURT

Thousands of people from all walks of life are given assistance, guidance and information by the Probate Court each year. In fact, at some time in his life or just after death each of us will be affected by this particular Court.

The Ohio Constitution of 1851 established a Probate Court, in each of the 88 counties. At present, one or more judges are authorized, but only Cuyahoga County has two. In some counties, the Probate Court is merged with the Common Pleas Court, provided the county population is less than 50,000.

The jurisdiction of the Court includes admission of wills to probate, settlement of estates, appointment and supervision of guardians and administrators, adoption of children, commitments to state mental institutions, issuance of marriage licenses and actions for change of name, to name only a few areas.

The Probate Court also serves as a consultation center on a multitude of human problems and performs a combination of administrative and judicial functions.

Costs in the Probate Court are fixed by statute and they may be waived. They must be paid at the time of filing papers, etc., with all costs collected by the Court paid into the county treasury.

After you die, the Probate Court will be directly involved with the handling of your will. It will determine, for instance, if the document presented as your last will and testament is in fact the one drawn by you. If there is doubt as to its meaning, the Court will construe the terms of the will. If necessary, it will appoint administrators and executors to handle the property which you left.

The Probate Court is given the power to issue writs of habeas corpus. It determines if a prisoner was properly arrested and is now being detained according to the law—or if he should be freed.

Among the more satisfying aspects of the Probate Judge's duties is the approval of a family acquiring a child by law — adoption. The event is of great significance to all concerned and its technical requirements today demand the assistance of an attorney. confidential and not open to the public, unlike many other Court records.

This brief look at the Probate Court shows how it is entwined in our daily lives more than any other court system. From cradle to grave the Probate Court follows us.

Who's Who In World Of Students

One of the busiest students at Wellsville High School is John Graham, a senior, who has just received word that he has been granted a full scholarship at the college of his choice on the basis of his high scholastic performance.

John has a 4.0 grade average. His interest is in anthropology and he plans to obtain a bachelor degree and do his master's work at Beloit (Wis.) College. This is one of the few colleges in this country that offers intensive and on the job study in that field.

John is a member of the National Honor Society, is president of the school chapter of the Future Teachers of America, vice president of the Senior Class, and co-editor of the Tiger Rag newspaper.

He also serves as cadet commander of the Wellsville Civil Air Patrol Squadron.

John placed as a finalist for one of the National Honor Society scholarships to be awarded later this year and Beloit College also has placed him as a candidate for a General Motors Scholarship because of his rating in the National Merit Scholarship examination he took during his junior year.

He is the son of Mrs. Corrine Graham, 1730 Commerce St., and the late John Graham.

Young String Players Perform

This stringed instrument group, composed of students from throughout grade schools in East Liverpool, has been presenting concerts before various groups this winter, and has other programs planned for the rest of the school term.

Directed by George Schweizer, elementary school string instrument teacher, the ensemble includes students from the fourth through sixth grades.

Schweizer, a member of the Wheeling Symphony Orchestra, says the group is comparatively young for organized concert work in the district.

The individual young musicians are making good progress and typify the stringed instrument program available in the city schools, he commented.

Covered Span Found, Makes 208 Over Ohio

The Ohio Covered Bridge Committee has been informed of the existence of 130-year old covered bridge in Pike County, heretofore not listed on the committee's books.

The span over a section of the old Ohio & Erie Canal three miles northeast of Waverly is called "Omega." It is the 208th such covered bridge known to remain in Ohio.

The "Omega" not only provided a means of crossing the canal, but had a trap door in the floor which permitted a wagon load of produce to be emptied into a canal boat beneath.

This 'n That

Whalers today use radar and helicopters to track their prey and "catcher" ships are armed with explosive weapons.

There are so few blue whales —largest mammals on earth— that some experts believe only a total ban on their hunting for eight years will save them from extinction.

The population of Lima, Peru, has quadrupled in the past 20 years.

Trial Launched 'Review' As Daily

City Startled By Poison Case

By GLENN H. WAIGHT

A little 2nd St. girl named Allie M. gagged on a cup of coffee one wintry day in 1885 while visiting relatives in another part of the city, giving the first hint of a wholesale poisoning which startled the city and launched daily publication of the Weekly Review.

Allie, with her mother and aunt, had walked to the home of an uncle, Daniel V., in Seldom Seen — a small area in the West End — on a chilling January day when ice filled the Ohio River.

Late in the afternoon, the guests and members of the family sat down for coffee and tea after supper. Allie, sipping some coffee, complained it was "nasty" and burned her throat.

SHE BECAME violently sick, as did several other members of the group, and her mother took her to a doctor's office, where she died about 3 a. m. the next day.

Dr. George P. Ikirt, the family physician, and another doctor were summoned to the home to treat 10 others afflicted with reactions ranging from nausea to convulsions. The physicians in short order pinpointed coffee as the source of the trouble, since those who had tea were unharmed.

Dr. Ikirt fished around in the coffeepot, after noticing a scum on the liquid, and brought forth a chunk of matter which he identified as a rat poison — "Rough On Rats" — an arsenic compound.

Seriously ill were the uncle and his wife, the wife's mother, 85, and five others in the family plus Allie's mother and aunt.

The piece of arsenic hauled out of the coffee by Dr. Ikirt with his penknife posed a very intriguing question which many immediately answered with the name of Annie V., 19-year-old member of the stricken family.

Annie, a fairly pretty girl who was abed with the apparent after - effects of the coffee, had not only made the brew, but had also concocted a blend of taffy the previous night which had flattened three of the other youngsters so they couldn't go to school that day.

THIS TAFFY, thrown in the slop bucket and tossed to the pigs, killed three of the animals and later showed traces of arsenic.

Annie, it was said, had had some trouble with her family, and was known to have taken laudanum, a drug, on previous occasions. She was called "a self - willed girl," and there were strong hints she had at least three times tried to take her own life with poison, but had been promptly pumped out by doctors.

Annie had gone to school until she was 16, then worked in a pottery for about two years.

Jere Simms, editor of the Tribune, visited Annie at her bedside, and she denied having put anything into the coffee pot other than coffee and water. The girl said she expected to be arrested, and said she knew of the talk of her being "a crank — not of sound mind because I have used laundanum."

But she said it wasn't so—"I have as good sense as anybody" — adding, "I am always blamed with anything done wrong."

A DIM VIEW of the coffee pollution was taken by the local authorities, who decided to put Annie to the test of the law.

She was indicted for first-degree murder, and placed in an 8 by 10-foot cell at New Lisbon where the Sheriff's daughter gave her pictures to hang. The cell had a rocking chair, lamp, mirror and flowers on the window sill—sent by a fellow inmate, Angus Bratt, later convicted of murder.

Annie spent a leisurely five months awaiting trial, reading the Bible along with a novel every two or three days and doing fanciwork which she sold to Lisbon residents toward the purchase of new clothes when —and if—she were freed.

The trial began June 16 and drew the avid interest of East Liverpool and the whole district. Here was a young girl with a "petite and handsome" figure, charged with a macabre crime, a la Borgia, in the middle of a dull summer.

Into the theatrical arena of the Courtroom were drawn other notables. Atty. R. W. Tayler, later to be a Congressman, was Prosecutor.

THE WITNESSES included four physicians, a college chemistry professor, Mayor John Burgess of East Liverpool, besides the members of the families, the undertaker, police and others.

The murder charge and excitement of the trial offered an irresistible appeal to Simms and William McCord, editor and publisher of The Saturday Review, to provide news coverage beyond that of the perspective of the weekly.

Simms hired Alex Vance to report the trial for the Tribune, providing a full, longhand account of the trial each day, sent to East Liverpool by special courier on horse as soon as court closed. Some extra printers were employed by the Tribune in an effort to have the copy in type and the papers printed and delivered by breakfast the next day.

In his initial issue, Simms wrote, "It is our pleasure to present today the first impression of a morning daily newspaper ever printed in this city or in the county. This is a considerable stride from a weekly edition, and the motive which leads us to this 'high-flying' journalistic point is the desire to furnish the freshest news relating to the trial. . ."

"We shall spare neither money nor labor in our endeavor to give the people all the news six or seven hours sooner than any of the Pittsburgh or Cleveland papers," Simms declared, setting the price of the new issue at 15 cents a week.

McCORD EMPLOYED court stenographer W. H. Pritchard to telephone his account to The Review for the evening edition, which came out the same day as the Tribune.

The Review, which contained a report of the Tuesday morning activities at Lisbon where the Tribune had only the Monday account, took a sarcastic editorial swipe at Simms, typical of the verbal jousts of the day.

McCord wrote, "We modestly greet our patrons. . .as a daily evening paper. We have no great claims. . .as the first daily ever published in East Liverpool. This we know, so far from being a 'high-flying journalistic' effort, is weak.

"We make no boast of our enormous stride from a weekly, but we will, to the best of our ability and to the extent of our means, give our readers a faithful review of the events of the days as they occur."

SELECTION OF a jury dragged on through the first day of the trial and the second before 12 men, "good and true," were selected, women not then being eligible for duty.

The courtroom remained crowded throughout the sessions held before Judge Spear of Portage County, and many from East Liverpool journeyed to the county seat for the testimony.

The state opened its case with a claim of guilt on the part of young Annie who sat demurely with her parents. She was dressed in a brown silk gown with a broad lace collar, her black bangs showing beneath a shepherd hat. Prosecutor Tayler said she had "serious trouble with her family, growing out of her wayward conduct", adding it was "to this trouble we must look for the wellsprings of that act" which resulted in the death of the little girl.

The parade to the witness stand began — the dead child's mother, her aunt, Annie's family, the physicians—over 20 in all.

On the fifth day of the trial, Annie took the stand, wearing a blue cashmere dress trimmed with black velvet, looking very "gloomy". She denied the charge, and held up well under the cross examination.

SHE ADMITTED taking laudanum, but said she had not touched it since the spring before Allie's death. She said there had been no trouble with her family.

Other testimony indicated the dead child had been ill the previous winter, was not "a strong youngster": that the deadly rat poison had been left indiscriminately in and near the sink and on bread throughout the kitchen as bait for rodents.

The coffee pot lid had been broken off for some time, testimony showed, and the defense contended there was every chance that the "Rough on Rats" had fallen into the pot instead of being placed in it.

The victim's mother said she had seen Annie take a package out of her pocket and thrust it back when the mother entered the kitchen the afternoon of the poisoning, but her claim apparently held little weight. The total evidence was circumstantial, and both papers expressed unqualified belief in the defendant's innocence.

The jury began deliberating the sixth day at 10:45 a. m. At 9:30 p. m. the courthouse bell was rung, signalling a jury decision. The panel filed back into the packed courtroom where the foreman read the verdict "Not guilty" — which was received with loud applause.

THE TRIBUNE came out Sunday morning with the Saturday story and a bulletin on the verdict. It did not publish again until the following Saturday — the daily venture was over for Simms, and the Tribune was not to become a permanent daily until 1902.

The Review did not publish again until Monday, carrying the now stale verdict story along with some important news about itself — McCord declared, "We beg leave to announce we have come to stay."

"There is no town or city of anything like the importance of East Liverpool," he wrote, "in population and business in the state so far as we know that does not support its daily newspaper."

This first edition of June 29, 1885, was a tabloid of five columns and four pages, selling for two cents.

McCord had begun the Review Oct. 25, 1889, as a weekly, coming from Wellsville where he had published the Wellsville Union. He was a native of Utica, N. Y., and had been raised at Steubenville where he went to work on a paper at 14, becoming composing room foreman at 16.

MCCORD SERVED in the Civil War and later went to Pittsburgh to work on the Post Gazette, becoming city editor until he quit in 1872 to join a brother at Wellsville to publish the Union.

A second daily was launched here in 1887 — The Crisis — published by James Deidrick and Dr. Ikirt, providing fiery competition for the Review which faced financial trouble by 1889. In 1892, McCord lost control of the Review, and later served as editor of the Crisis for six years.

In 1901 he went to Salem as editor of the News, and was twice elected state representative from Columbiana County. He died in 1908.

McCord's announcement of the Review as a daily, outlining the paper's code as the same as the weekly, bears standards of merit which any paper today should be proud to meet:

"We have no fine-spun theoretical policy to lay down, other than that the character and tone of the Saturday Review on moral, social and political topics will be steadily maintained in the daily.

"We have endeavored undeviatingly to furnish our readers with a clean newspaper — with all that implies — and no motive presents itself to cause a change...

"Finally, we do not deem this departure as an experiment or venture in any sense. We ask no written or verbal guarantee of support as a condition of our existence...We only ask to be allowed to stand or fall on our merits.

"To our competitors in journalism, as well as others in our community who may honestly differ with us on any subject or particular, we would simply say that we bear 'malice toward none' and having 'charity for all' we place the Evening Review before our people as a regular publication and permanent candidate for public favor."

Pupils Break A Tradition

Shown above is a group of Wellsville elementary students who broke a kind of tradition this week by visiting a pottery.

The sixth graders at MacDonald School are the first class from the public school system to tour the city's main industry as an organized group for many years, if ever.

The tour, interestingly enough, was arranged by the city's police department.

About five years ago the department received a call from a teacher in Pittsburgh asking if arrangements could be made to have her class tour a pottery. As a service and to avoid numerous long distance telephone calls, Patrolman Ed James was assigned to handle the schedule.

Since then, the department has arranged many tours through the Sterling China Co., according to Chief Hepner. Groups have visited from various parts of the tri-state area.

Provision is even made for feeding the youngsters.

This group just completed instruction in one phase of ceramics. Dominick J. Amino, elementary and high school art instructor, said they made a free form bowl, using a "slab" method. The tour was set up to expose the children to the pottery trade with the instruction fresh in their minds.

Boat Manners Aired

By JOHN BOHANNAN

The way an owner operates his boat, especially in the early days before he has learned how to handle his craft well, determines his status among other skippers. First impressions are hard to change.

One place where good manners will pay off is around a launching ramp. The man who awaits his turn in line instead of trying to barge in ahead of others immediately earns respect.

Politeness calls for pulling the car and trailer off the ramp as quickly as possible and moving them to the designated parking area. To do this, it's helpful to have another person along so the boat can be taken to a nearby dock at the same time. Then, any further loading operations can take place without delaying others.

WHEN returning to the ramp for hauling, the two - man operation again will save time for all hands. One person can be put ashore to bring the trailer around while the other stands by in the boat ready to bring her in.

Once the trailer has been backed into position for hauling the boat, the shore man should slack off on the winch line and be ready to snap it on the bow as soon as the keel hits the rollers.

Smooth efficiency in pulling the boat out of the water comes with practice, but a beginner won't be criticized if he is trying to haul without wasting time.

The gas dock is another place where good manners pay off, and here's where all types of craft — inboards, outboards and auxiliaries — converge during rush hours.

IT MAY be difficult to hold position under certain wind conditions. Enough space should be allowed between boats so each skipper can maneuver back in line if he is blown off course. Sometimes this may require making a tight circle.

As soon as fuel has been taken aboard and the boat has been given enough time to air out, she should get under way at once. This means staying aboard while fueling, not going ashore to make telephone calls or buy groceries.

Immediately after leaving a gas dock, the boat still is in crowded water. This calls for just enough speed to maintain steerageway, and keeping a careful watch on other craft. Rules of the road must be observed to the letter.

Once out in open water, there must be no relaxation of good manners and full - time attention to the operation of the boat.

A considerate skipper gives a wide berth to fishermen and other anchored boats, always reduces speed when his wake could cause damage to docks, shorelines or other vessels.

The new owner who observes common sense safety precautions and shows an awareness of the rights of others will be quick to make friends.

Questions and Answers

Q. At night, I always run my outboard runabout slowly. My friends kid me about this, but I claim it's hard to see driftwood in the dark. Am I right or wrong?

A. You're right. Many a boat has been holed by hitting a floating object at high speed.

Q. I tried to throw a line to a chap whose boat had been blown on to a sandbar by an onshore wind. I couldn't quite reach him with the line, and I was afraid to come in closer. What could I have done?

A. Next time, bend the end of the line to a ring buoy or buoyant cushion and float it downwind.

Nautical Terms

TO HAUL — To take a boat out of the water by any means. Adding the word "out" is superfluous.

AUXILIARY — A sailboat with an engine.

TO BEND — To fasten.

Q. How can I remove carbon paper stains from fabrics?

A. These can be sponged out with carbon tetrachloride. To remove any remaining traces of dyestuff, flush out with a solution of water, detergent, and a small amount of ammonia.

Q. How can I add a nice gloss when washing wood floors and woodwork?

A. By adding three tablespoons of turpentine to your wash water, then wiping the wood with a clean dry cloth or mop when you've finished. Another method is to add a teaspoon of baking soda to your wash water.

Caught In Bronze

Plaques Preserve City's Official 'Family' Of 1934

By ROBERT POPP

Like an insect caught in amber, a picture of East Liverpool's official family as it was in 1934 is preserved in imperishable bronze plaques mounted on the walls at City Hall.

The thick metal plates were cast especially to be mounted in the entranceways as a permanent part of the new municipal building prior to its dedication 30 years ago.

Most of the names faded from public life long ago, but others have moved upward, still in the realm of public service.

For instance Raymond S. Buzzard was city solicitor in 1934. Now he's a Common Pleas judge.

Others whose names were cast in small type 30 years ago later moved on to prominence in public life. For instance William W. Watkin and Lawrence S. Bloor both were members of the Planning Commission when the building was erected. Each later became an East Liverpool safety - service director.

TWO OF THE plaques mounted on either side of the main entrance of City Hall name members of the administration, Council and persons who served on a long list of boards and commissions.

In the entrance to the police station, there's another plaque naming all the men on the force at that time.

The plaques identify City Hall as CWA Project D-927 and FERA Project 15-B3-2. Both were predecessors of the WPA — federal agencies set up in Washington during the depression to encourage public works projects.

Ironically, three of the names are misspelled on the plaques. But typographical errors can't be corrected in bronze. The errors will stand for the ages.

The late O. Earl Greenawalt was mayor at the time the building was erected and dedicated. E. B. Laughlin was safety - service director.

George A. Hughes was Council president and G. Arthur Shone was clerk. The councilmen were Harry S. Lindell, Clyde V. Hall, Charles M. Rumberger, William J. Hocking, C. Walter Ashbaugh, James Hall and L. T. Capehart.

Shelton J. Overdorff was auditor and Olen H. Dawson was treasurer. Judge Frank E. Grosshans was on the bench in Municipal Court and Miss Sara McMillan was clerk.

ON THE CIVIL Service Commission were William J. Barlow, Robert McHenry and Harlan Finley. William McGraw and Raymond Leonard were the clerks.

Dr. Roy C. Costello was health commissioner. On the Health Board were J. T. Croxall, I. A. Hoffman, Dr. K. C. Willis, Charles Kidd and R.H. Dorff. H. J. Kaufman was secretary.

The Planning Commission, in addition to Bloor and Watkin, was comprised of Thomas Stephens, Robert Brookes, John W. Golden, Harry B. Keys and Atty. William H. Vodrey.

Vodrey also was on the Board of Thompson Park Commissioners, along with George Chadwick, W. Leland Thompson and Thomas W. Anthony.

The Board of Trustees of the Carnegie Public Library was comprised of Harry Brokaw, Walter Niblock, H. B. Barth, John McGillivray, Roy Shingleton, Hugh Thorn, Mrs. Frank Crook and Mrs. Morris Altman, Miss Mary Hall was librarian.

OF ALL THE names listed on the plaque in the police department, only one man still is with the force. Most of the others faded away into retirement and later died.

Clyde W. Boso, now a lieutenant, was a young special officer when the plaque was cast 30 years ago.

Hugh J. McDermott was chief and J. Norman McFarland was captain. There were no lieutenants in those days. The 11 patrolmen were: James Haley, William Lister, Chester C. Smith, Herman Roth, Leslie Curran, Elwyn Shenkel, George Kidder, John Richards, Thomas Russell, George Curran and LeRoy Wise.

Wise later advanced to chief and Smith and Roth were captains in later years.

Stamps In The News

The second commemorative stamp of the year to be issued by the United Nations will honor the U.N. Conference on Trade and Development and will have first-day ceremonies March 23. This is the date the conference convenes in Geneva.

The intrenational conference, with an estimated 1,500 participants and observers, will consider problems involved in the expansion steps to meet the special needs of developing nations. It will continue until June 15.

The new stamp has a basic design of arrows pointing in two directions, denoting a global flow of trade. The 5-cent stamp will be red, yellow and black.

The 11-center will be olive green, yellow and black. The marginal inscriptions will consist of the U.N. seal with the text "Trade and Development" around the top of the seal.

Collectors desiring first-day covers may send their remittances to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed to the U.N. Postal Administration, United Nations, New York, N.Y. 10017. The outside envelope must be clearly marked "FDC — TRADE."

The "Grand Canyon" of Pennsylvania, near Wellsboro in Harrison State Park, has a gorge almost 50 miles long and more than a thousand feet deep at some points.

Trial Launched 'Review' As Daily

By GLENN H. WAIGHT

A little 2nd St. girl named Allie M. gagged on a cup of coffee one wintry day in 1885 while visiting relatives in another part of the city, giving the first hint of a wholesale poisoning which startled the city and launched daily publication of the Weekly Review.

Allie, with her mother and aunt, had walked to the home of an uncle, Daniel V., in Seldom Seen — a small area in the West End — on a chilling January day when ice filled the Ohio River.

Late in the afternoon, the guests and members of the family sat down for coffee and tea after supper. Allie, sipping some coffee, complained it was "nasty" and burned her throat.

SHE BECAME violently sick, as did several other members of the group, and her mother took her to a doctor's office, where she died about 3 a. m. the next day.

Dr. George P. Ikirt, the family physician, and another doctor were summoned to the home to treat 10 others afflicted with reactions ranging from nausea to convulsions. The physicians in short order pinpointed coffee as the source of the trouble, since those who had tea were unharmed.

Dr. Ikirt fished around in the coffeepot, after noticing a scum on the liquid, and brought forth a chunk of matter which he identified as a rat poison — "Rough On Rats" — an arsenic compound.

Seriously ill were the uncle and his wife, the wife's mother, 85, and five others in the family plus Allie's mother and aunt.

The piece of arsenic hauled out of the coffee by Dr. Ikirt with his penknife posed a very intriguing question which many immediately answered with the name of Annie V., 19-year-old member of the stricken family.

Annie, a fairly pretty girl who was abed with the apparent after - effects of the coffee, had not only made the brew, but had also concocted a blend of taffy the previous night which had flattened three of the other youngsters so they couldn't go to school that day.

THIS TAFFY, thrown in the slop bucket and tossed to the pigs, killed three of the animals and later showed traces of arsenic.

Annie, it was said, had had some trouble with her family, and was known to have taken laudanum, a drug, on previous occasions. She was called "a self - willed girl," and there were strong hints she had at least three times tried to take her own life with poison, but had been promptly pumped out by doctors.

Annie had gone to school until she was 16, then worked in a pottery for about two years.

Jere Simms, editor of the Tribune, visited Annie at her bedside, and she denied having put anything into the coffee pot other than coffee and water. The girl said she expected to be arrested, and said she knew of the talk of her being "a crank — not of sound mind because I have used laundanum."

But she said it wasn't so—"I have as good sense as anybody" — adding, "I am always blamed with anything done wrong."

A DIM VIEW of the coffee pollution was taken by the local authorities, who decided to put Annie to the test of the law.

She was indicted for first-degree murder, and placed in an 8 by 10-foot cell at New Lisbon where the Sheriff's daughter gave her pictures to hang. The cell had a rocking chair, lamp, mirror and flowers on the window sill—sent by a fellow inmate, Angus Bratt, later convicted of murder.

Annie spent a leisurely five months awaiting trial, reading the Bible along with a novel every two or three days and doing fanciwork which she sold to Lisbon residents toward the purchase of new clothes when —and if—she were freed.

The trial began June 16 and drew the avid interest of East Liverpool and the whole district. Here was a young girl with a "petite and handsome" figure, charged with a macabre crime, a la Borgia, in the middle of a dull summer.

Into the theatrical arena of the Courtroom were drawn other notables. Atty. R. W. Tayler, later to be a Congressman, was Prosecutor.

THE WITNESSES included four physicians, a college chemistry professor, Mayor John Burgess of East Liverpool, besides the members of the families, the undertaker, police and others.

The murder charge and excitement of the trial offered an irresistible appeal to Simms and William McCord, editor and publisher of The Saturday Review, to provide news coverage beyond that of the perspective of the weekly.

Simms hired Alex Vance to report the trial for the Tribune, providing a full, longhand account of the trial each day, sent to East Liverpool by special courier on horse as soon as court closed. Some extra printers were employed by the Tribune in an effort to have the copy in type and the papers printed and delivered by breakfast the next day.

In his initial issue, Simms wrote, "It is our pleasure to present today the first impression of a morning daily newspaper ever printed in this city or in the county. This is a considerable stride from a weekly edition, and the motive which leads us to this 'high-flying' journalistic point is the desire to furnish the freshest news relating to the trial. . ."

"We shall spare neither money nor labor in our endeavor to give the people all the news six or seven hours sooner than any of the Pittsburgh or Cleveland papers," Simms declared, setting the price of the new issue at 15 cents a week.

—:—

McCORD EMPLOYED court stenographer W. H. Pritchard to telephone his account to The Review for the evening edition, which came out the same day as the Tribune.

The Review, which contained a report of the Tuesday morning activities at Lisbon where the Tribune had only the Monday account, took a sarcastic editorial swipe at Simms, typical of the verbal jousts of the day.

McCord wrote, "We modestly greet our patrons. . .as a daily evening paper. We have no great claims. . .as the first daily ever published in East Liverpool. This we know, so far from being a 'high-flying journalistic' effort, is weak.

"We make no boast of our enormous stride from a weekly, but we will, to the best of our ability and to the extent of our means, give our readers a faithful review of the events of the days as they occur."

SELECTION OF a jury dragged on through the first day of the trial and the second before 12 men, "good and true," were selected, women not then being eligible for duty.

The courtroom remained crowded throughout the sessions held before Judge Spear of Portage County, and many from East Liverpool journeyed to the county seat for the testimony.

The state opened its case with a claim of guilt on the part of young Annie who sat demurely with her parents. She was dressed in a brown silk gown with a broad lace collar, her black bangs showing beneath a shepherd hat. Prosecutor Tayler said she had "serious trouble with her family, growing out of her wayward conduct", adding it was "to this trouble we must look for the wellsprings of that act" which resulted in the death of the little girl.

Q. At night, I always run my outboard runabout slowly. My friends kid me about this, but I claim it's hard to see driftwood in the dark. Am I right or wrong?

A. You're right. Many a boat has been holed by hitting a floating object at high speed.

Q. I tried to throw a line to a chap whose boat had been blown on to a sandbar by an onshore wind. I couldn't quite reach him with the line, and I was afraid to come in closer. What could I have done?

A. Next time, bend the end of the line to a ring buoy or buoyant cushion and float it downwind.

Nautical Terms

AUXILIARY — A sailboat with an engine.

A. By adding three tablespoons of turpentine to your wash water, then wiping the wood with a clean dry cloth or mop when you've finished. Another method is to add a teaspoon of baking soda to your wash water.

Caught In Bronze

By ROBERT POPP

Like an insect caught in amber, a picture of East Liverpool's official family as it was in 1934 is preserved in imperishable bronze plaques mounted on the walls at City Hall.

The thick metal plates were cast especially to be mounted in the entranceways as a permanent part of the new municipal building prior to its dedication 30 years ago.

Most of the names faded from public life long ago, but others have moved upward, still in the realm of public service.

For instance Raymond S. Buzzard was city solicitor in 1934. Now he's a Common Pleas judge.

Others whose names were cast in small type 30 years ago later moved on to prominence in public life. For instance William W. Watkin and Lawrence S. Bloor both were members of the Planning Commission when the building was erected. Each later became an East Liverpool safety - service director.

TWO OF THE plaques mounted on either side of the main entrance of City Hall name members of the administration, Council and persons who served on a long list of boards and commissions.

In the entrance to the police station, there's another plaque naming all the men on the force at that time.

The plaques identify City Hall as CWA Project D-927 and FERA Project 15-B3-2. Both were predecessors of the WPA — federal agencies set up in Washington during the depression to encourage public works projects.

Ironically, three of the names are misspelled on the plaques. But typographical errors can't be corrected in bronze. The errors will stand for the ages.

The late O. Earl Greenawalt was mayor at the time the building was erected and dedicated. E. B. Laughlin was safety - service director.

George A. Hughes was Council president and G. Arthur Shone was clerk. The councilmen were Harry S. Lindell, Clyde V. Hall, Charles M. Rumberger, William J. Hocking, C. Walter Ashbaugh, James Hall and L. T. Capehart.

Shelton J. Overdorff was auditor and Olen H. Dawson was treasurer. Judge Frank E. Grosshans was on the bench in Municipal Court and Miss Sara McMillan was clerk.

ON THE CIVIL Service Commission were William J. Barlow, Robert McHenry and Harlan Finley. William McGraw and Raymond Leonard were the clerks.

Dr. Roy C. Costello was health commissioner. On the Health Board were J. T. Croxall, I. A. Hoffman, Dr. K. C. Willis, Charles Kidd and R.H. Dorff. H. J. Kaufman was secretary.

The Planning Commission, in addition to Bloor and Watkin, was comprised of Thomas Stephens, Robert Brookes, John W. Golden, Harry B. Keys and Atty. William H. Vodrey.

Vodrey also was on the Board of Thompson Park Commissioners, along with George Chadwick, W. Leland Thompson and Thomas W. Anthony.

The Board of Trustees of the Carnegie Public Library was comprised of Harry Brokaw, Walter Niblock, H. B. Barth, John McGillivray, Roy Shingleton, Hugh Thorn, Mrs. Frank Crook and Mrs. Morris Altman, Miss Mary Hall was librarian.

OF ALL THE names listed on the plaque in the police department, only one man still is with the force. Most of the others faded away into retirement and later died.

Clyde W. Boso, now a lieutenant, was a young special officer when the plaque was cast 30 years ago.

Hugh J. McDermott was chief and J. Norman McFarland was captain. There were no lieutenants in those days. The 11 patrolmen were: James Haley, William Lister, Chester C. Smith, Herman Roth, Leslie Curran, Elwyn Shenkel, George Kidder, John Richards, Thomas Russell, George Curran and LeRoy Wise.

Wise later advanced to chief and Smith and Roth were captains in later years.

Stamps In The News

The second commemorative stamp of the year to be issued by the United Nations will honor the U.N. Conference on Trade and Development and will have first-day ceremonies March 23. This is the date the conference convenes in Geneva.

The intrenational conference, with an estimated 1,500 participants and observers, will consider problems involved in the expansion steps to meet the special needs of developing nations. It will continue until June 15.

The new stamp has a basic design of arrows pointing in two directions, denoting a global flow of trade. The 5-cent stamp will be red, yellow and black.

The 11-center will be olive green, yellow and black. The marginal inscriptions will consist of the U.N. seal with the text "Trade and Development" around the top of the seal.

Collectors desiring first-day covers may send their remittances to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed to the U.N. Postal Administration, United Nations, New York, N.Y. 10017. The outside envelope must be clearly marked "FDC — TRADE."

The "Grand Canyon" of Pennsylvania, near Wellsboro in Harrison State Park, has a gorge almost 50 miles long and more than a thousand feet deep at some points.

Kuzma's Team Gains Edge On Fouls

By BOB DUFFY

They made it! The Midland High Leopards took their biggest step along the rocky WPIAL tournament trail Friday night by winning a spot in the championship battle or the first time with a hard-earned 51-43 victory over a scrappy New Castle five.

COACH Hank Kuzma will lead his boys back to the Arena Monday night to battle powerful Uniontown for all the marbles. The Red Raiders arrived in the finals with an 84-52 romp over Stowe on Thursday.

The WPIAL title fray has a perfect setting since it will be a battle of two undefeated teams as both schools put unblemished marks of 24-0 on the line, but something will have to give Monday.

MIDLAND could never get over the semi-final hurdle. Leopard teams in the past bowed out at this point, but last night was a different story.

New Castle showed a 17-14 edge in field goals, but Midland stepped to the foul line to make 23 of 30 attempts. The foul shooting was good in the first half but near-perfect in the second half when the Leopards made 16 of 18.

—:—

KUZMA ordered a deliberate type of game and that's what his team gave him. Midland, with its outstanding ability to move the ball well, was satisfied to play the waiting game and take that good shot.

The Leopards had to be exceptionally adept at moving the ball last night because of New Castle's fine zone defense that saw the Hurricanes hustling all over the court.

Midland got off to a bad start before the huge throng and Kuzma, denying that his team was a victim of stage fright in the early going, pointed out after the game that "we have been behind before and the game isn't won in the first quarter."

MIDLAND trailed most of the first quarter and was behind by six points at one time early in the second period.

The Leopards trailed, 10-8, at the end of the first quarter, but came on to take a 19-18 lead at halftime in the low-scoring half.

It appeared that Midland would pull away in the third quarter after building up an eight point lead, 31-23, late in the third period, but New Castle started a comeback and cut the margin to 31-27 when the quarter ended.

EARLY in the fourth period New Castle cut the lead to 31-29 and the situation started to look dark for Midland, but the Leopards went to the foul line to build its winning margin.

No one player can be singled out for the Leopards it was a close knit team effort again with three starters finishing in the double figures.

"Slim" Sim Hill, who was held scoreless through the first quarter and up to 2:55 remaining in the second period, came on strong to wind up as top scorer for the Leopards with 16. He tied New Castle's ace Mike Drespling for honors.

RON BROWN, 6-2 forward, followed Hill with 14 points out-goaled and also out-rebounded while "quarterback" Norm Vanlier added 12, including eight of 10 fouls. Vanlier also could have been the difference with his all-around floor play and leadership.

Rod Alston, who seems to save his scoring for the final period, dropped in four straight fouls in the last eight minutes and Bill Haggerty added four points to the attack.

The foul line was about the only department Midland showed an edge. The Leopards were ed by a slim margin of 31-28. Hill grabbed 11 rebounds to lead Midland off the backboards.

DRESPLING, the 6-5 star of the Section 3 Champs, who scored over 500 points this season was held to four markers in the first half, but wound up with 16 for the game.

He wasn't consistent in the second half as he fired away wildly on several occasions and wound up making seven of 22 attempts for the evening.

Bob Doster, 5-8 guard and second leading scorer for New Castle, was held to eight points.

NEW CASTLE only shot 50 per cent at the foul line, making nine of 18, and Drespling fell down in this department with two of six.

Neither team shot well in the semi-final round, with Midland showing 14 of 44 for 31.8 per cent and New Castle 17 of 57 for 29 per cent.

Midland went in front to stay in the second quarter. Brown tied the game at 14-14 and with 2:55 remaining in the half, Hill scored his first points of the game by making a pair of fouls and then followed with a three-point play to move Midland ahead, 19-14.

GEORGE THOMAS and Dorster scored two quick goals as time was running out in the half to pull within one point, 19-18, when the horn for intermission sounded.

Late in the third quarter Brown scored two straight fielders to push Midland out to a 31-23 margin with 2:02 left in the frame, but substitute Denny Dunham hit on two fouls and a field goal to cut the Leopard lead to 31-27.

DRESPLING opened the fourth quarter with a long jump shot to bring it down to 31-29, but Midland scored the next four points on fouls by Hill and substitute Ted Vaughn and a field goal by Hill for a 35-29 advantage.

With 3:14 remaining in the game, New Castle cut the lead to 37-33, but four straight fouls, two each by Hill and Rod Alston, put Midland's lead back to eight points, 41-33, with 2:27 to go and the Leopards could see clear sailing to the title game.

'Uniontown's Powerful,' Midland Coach Observes

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

The Midland dressing room at the Civic Arena Friday night had an air you might find at the Mardi Gras, but when things became quiet a stern-looking Hank Kuzma began thinking a little about Uniontown, a team he highly respects.

"They're powerful," Kuzma said. And what makes them that way? the Midland coach was asked. "They have great talent and excellent shooting and rebounding. We haven't given Uniontown too much thought yet because you have to play each game as you come to it," Hank added.

WHEN Kuzma scouts a team they are really scouted. The Midland coach was leafing through a 10-page copy of a scouting report on New Castle that had about everything maybe including the way each player parted his hair.

—:—

ASKED how it felt to be going for the championship, Kuzma replied: "It takes a lot of work, too much in fact. This is a great sacrifice on the part of the youngsters and their parents, my assistant Stan Yukica and my family. This has been a team of desire and determination, they play together," he added.

—:—

KUZMA called last night's victory a fine team effort, but did single out the defensive work of Rod Alston and Ted Vaughn. Alston turned in one fine defensive play when he blocked a shot by Bob Doster in the fourth quarter when it appeared the little New Castle guard would get into score.

—:—

WAS Kuzma worried about the early part of the game? Apparently not. He said "we have been behind before, we made a few mistakes but the game isn't won in the first quarter. To beat us the other team will have to play 32 minutes of good basketball."

—:—

FOLLOWING the game Kuzma finally reached the dressing room and went around and shook hands with each player and thanked them for a fine game.

ABOUT every seat in the spacious Civic Arena was filled last night and they were even standing in the aisles with a record crowd of 10,394 on hand.

A PITTSBURGH cab driver pretty well called the shot before the game last night as he said "don't worry, fellas, Midland will win by nine or 10 points." We wonder how he feels about the Uniontown game?

Midland-Uniontown Tickets On Sale Today

Tickets for the Midland-Uniontown championship game Monday were to be on sale to season ticket holders today from 3 to 5 p.m. at the new Midland gym ticket office and on sale to the public after 5 at the gym and Bahm's and Ernie's Drugs.

Class AA, A Fields Will Be Cut To 16

Regional Berths At Stake Tonight As Ohio Quints Continue To Battle

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's 910 high school basketball teams have dwindled to 58 — with 26 due to fall in tonight's fight for regional tournament berths.

The Class AA starting field of 513 still has 31 on hand, while the 397-team class A contingent has been cut to 27.

Portsmouth in Class AA, and Columbus University, Centerburg, Piqua Catholic, New Lexington St. Aloysius and Southeastern of Ross County in Class A, already have clinched their spots in the round of 16.

Fort Loramie, ninth-ranked in the final Class A poll by The Associated Press, was ousted at Springfield as Piqua Catholic won its regional tourney ticket by 55-51 Friday night. Only five of The AP's Class A Top Ten are left.

Columbus University reached the Troy Regional with a 69-55 win over Licking Valley at Columbus, and Centerburg beat Berne Union 59-50 in the same meet to move on to Athens.

Five former state champions, including defending Dresden Jefferson, are still in the Class A fight, along with four in Class AA. Martins Ferry, the 1941 champ, fell 62-47 before New Philadelphia's 1940 Class AA kings at Steubenville, but there were few other surprises.

Five of the Class AA top Ten remain in the chase, including top-ranked Dayton Belmont and second-place Canton McKinley. There's a possibility a Top Ten cast in the state tournament could evolve, since the Class AA favorites are headed for four different regionals — with only Canton McKinley and Portsmouth going to the same one.

The same is true in Class AA, where only sixth-ranked Brilliant and eighth-rated Strasburg have a chance to meet in the regionals. Unless they stumble tonight, second-rated Celina ICHS goes to Lima, Southeastern of Ross (fifth) to Athens, Columbus University (10th) to Troy, and Brilliant and Strasburg to Canton.

In Class AA, Dayton Belmont is headed for Cincinnati, Canton McKinley and eighth-place Portsmouth to Columbus, fourth rated Cleveland Rhodes to Toledo, and 10th-place Cleveland East Tech to Kent.

Bradds Named Ohio Honorary Governor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gary Bradd's, college basketball's player of the year and a two-time All-America at Ohio State, has been named Honorary Governor of Ohio.

Tom Blackburn, Dayton Cage Coach, Dies At 58

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The last University of Dayton basketball team coached by the late Tom Blackburn will finish its season here tonight, as scheduled, against DePaul.

"That's the way Tom would want it," Mrs. Libby Blackburn told university officials Friday. Later in the day her husband, who compiled one of the nation's outstanding college basketball coaching records in his 17 seasons at Dayton, died of lung cancer. He was 58.

Funeral services will be held here at 10 a.m. Monday at St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

The soft-spoken, popular Blackburn took teams to the National Invitation Tournament 10 times and won the tourney championship in the 10th try, in 1962.

Blackburn died at Miami Valley Hospital, where he was admitted last Saturday. It was the fourth time since last September that he had been taken to the hospital.

In September, surgery revealed that he had lung cancer, and tumorous tissue was removed from his left lung. A few weeks later he was out of the hospital, getting his team ready for the 1963-64 season.

Ex-Umpire Dies

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) —Augie Moran, 96, National League baseball umpire in 1903, 1904, 1910 and 1911, died Friday. He was a native of New York, and was a player before turning to umpiring. After leaving the majors, he umpired in the minor leagues until retirement in 1930.

American Vit., Ogilvie's Win In Tourney

NEW CASTLE only shot 50 per cent at the foul line, making nine of 18, and Drespling fell down in this department with two of six.

Neither team shot well in the semi-final round, with Midland showing 14 of 44 for 31.8 per cent and New Castle 17 of 57 for 29 per cent.

Midland went in front to stay in the second quarter. Brown tied the game at 14-14 and with 2:55 remaining in the half, Hill scored his first points of the game by making a pair of fouls and then followed with a three-point play to move Midland ahead, 19-14.

GEORGE THOMAS and Dorster scored two quick goals as time was running out in the half to pull within one point, 19-18, when the horn for intermission sounded.

Late in the third quarter Brown scored two straight fielders to push Midland out to a 31-23 margin with 2:02 left in the frame, but substitute Denny Dunham hit on two fouls and a field goal to cut the Leopard lead to 31-27.

DRESPLING opened the fourth quarter with a long jump shot to bring it down to 31-29, but Midland scored the next four points on fouls by Hill and substitute Ted Vaughn and a field goal by Hill for a 35-29 advantage.

With 3:14 remaining in the game, New Castle cut the lead to 37-33, but four straight fouls, two each by Hill and Rod Alston, put Midland's lead back to eight points, 41-33, with 2:27 to go and the Leopards could see clear sailing to the title game.

Midland-Uniontown Game To Be On TV

Pittsburgh educational television station — WQED — channel 13, will televise the WPIAL championship basketball game between Midland and Uniontown, Monday at 8 p.m., from the Civic Arena.

'Uniontown's Powerful,' Midland Coach Observes

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

The Midland dressing room at the Civic Arena Friday night had an air you might find at the Mardi Gras, but when things became quiet a stern-looking Hank Kuzma began thinking a little about Uniontown, a team he highly respects.

"They're powerful," Kuzma said. And what makes them that way? the Midland coach was asked. "They have great talent and excellent shooting and rebounding. We haven't given Uniontown too much thought yet because you have to play each game as you come to it," Hank added.

WHEN Kuzma scouts a team they are really scouted. The Midland coach was leafing through a 10-page copy of a scouting report on New Castle that had about everything maybe including the way each player parted his hair.

—:—

ASKED how it felt to be going for the championship, Kuzma replied: "It takes a lot of work, too much in fact. This is a great sacrifice on the part of the youngsters and their parents, my assistant Stan Yukica and my family. This has been a team of desire and determination, they play together," he added.

—:—

KUZMA called last night's victory a fine team effort, but did single out the defensive work of Rod Alston and Ted Vaughn. Alston turned in one fine defensive play when he blocked a shot by Bob Doster in the fourth quarter when it appeared the little New Castle guard would get into score.

—:—

WAS Kuzma worried about the early part of the game? Apparently not. He said "we have been behind before, we made a few mistakes but the game isn't won in the first quarter. To beat us the other team will have to play 32 minutes of good basketball."

—:—

FOLLOWING the game Kuzma finally reached the dressing room and went around and shook hands with each player and thanked them for a fine game.

ABOUT every seat in the spacious Civic Arena was filled last night and they were even standing in the aisles with a record crowd of 10,394 on hand.

—:—

A PITTSBURGH cab driver pretty well called the shot before the game last night as he said "don't worry, fellas, Midland will win by nine or 10 points." We wonder how he feels about the Uniontown game?

Midland-Uniontown Tickets On Sale Today

Tickets for the Midland-Uniontown championship game Monday were to be on sale to season ticket holders today from 3 to 5 p.m. at the new Midland gym ticket office and on sale to the public after 5 at the gym and Bahm's and Ernie's Drugs.

WITH TIE loosened, Hank Kuzma, the successful pilot of the Midland Leopards, urges his team on to a semi-final victory over New Castle Friday night at Pittsburgh.

Class AA, A Fields Will Be Cut To 16

Regional Berths At Stake Tonight As Ohio Quints Continue To Battle

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's 910 high school basketball teams have dwindled to 58 — with 26 due to fall in tonight's fight for regional tournament berths.

The Class AA starting field of 513 still has 31 on hand, while the 397-team class A contingent has been cut to 27.

Portsmouth in Class AA, and Columbus University, Centerburg, Piqua Catholic, New Lexington St. Aloysius and Southeastern of Ross County in Class A, already have clinched their spots in the round of 16.

Fort Loramie, ninth-ranked in the final Class A poll by The Associated Press, was ousted at Springfield as Piqua Catholic won its regional tourney ticket by 55-51 Friday night. Only five of The AP's Class A Top Ten are left.

Columbus University reached the Troy Regional with a 69-55 win over Licking Valley at Columbus, and Centerburg beat Berne Union 59-50 in the same meet to move on to Athens.

Georgetown of Brown County saw its 21-game clean record besmirched at Princeton as Lockland, with a 13-7 record, won by 52-48.

Five former state champions, including defending Dresden Jefferson, are still in the Class A fight, along with four in Class AA. Martins Ferry, the 1941 champ, fell 62-47 before New Philadelphia's 1940 Class AA kings at Steubenville, but there were few other surprises.

Five of the Class AA top Ten remain in the chase, including top-ranked Dayton Belmont and second-place Canton McKinley. There's a possibility a Top Ten cast in the state tournament could evolve, since the Class AA favorites are headed for four different regionals — with only Canton McKinley and Portsmouth going to the same one.

The same is true in Class AA, where only sixth-ranked Brilliant and eighth-rated Strasburg have a chance to meet in the regionals. Unless they stumble tonight, second - rated Celina ICHS goes to Lima, Southeastern of Ross (fifth) to Athens, Columbus University (10th) to Troy, and Brilliant and Strasburg to Canton.

In Class AA, Dayton Belmont is headed for Cincinnati, Canton McKinley and eighth - place Portsmouth to Columbus, fourth rated Cleveland Rhodes to Toledo, and 10th-place Cleveland East Tech to Kent.

Bradds Named Ohio Honorary Governor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gary Bradd's, college basketball's player of the year and a two-time All-America at Ohio State, has been named Honorary Governor of Ohio.

Tom Blackburn, Dayton Cage Coach, Dies At 58

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The last University of Dayton basketball team coached by the late Tom Blackburn will finish its season here tonight, as scheduled, against DePaul.

"That's the way Tom would want it," Mrs. Libby Blackburn told university officials Friday. Later in the day her husband, who compiled one of the nation's outstanding college basketball coaching records in his 17 seasons at Dayton, died of lung cancer. He was 58.

Funeral services will be held here at 10 a.m. Monday at St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

The soft-spoken, popular Blackburn took teams to the National Invitation Tournament 10 times and won the tourney championship in the 10th try, in 1962.

Blackburn jumped from high school coaching ranks to the Dayton job and compiled a 352-140 record with his 17 Flyer teams.

Blackburn died at Miami Valley Hospital, where he was admitted last Saturday. It was the fourth time since last September that he had been taken to the hospital.

In September, surgery revealed that he had lung cancer, and tumorous tissue was removed from his left lung. A few weeks later he was out of the hospital, getting his team ready for the 1963-64 season.

Ex-Umpire Dies

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) —Augie Moran, 96, National League baseball umpire in 1903, 1904, 1910 and 1911, died Friday. He was a native of New York, and was a player before turning to umpiring. After leaving the majors, he umpired in the minor leagues until retirement in 1930.

Dan Cunningham and Harpold scored nine each while Adkins chipped in with eight to lead Ogilvie's. Jim Musuraca tallied five for the losers.

2 Share Lead In Pensacola Open At 135

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—Two victory-starved veterans of the golf tour wars — greying Fred Hawkins and dapper Ken Venturi—led the 69-pro field into the third round of the $30,000 Pensacola Open today.

Hawkins, a 40-year-old golfer from El Paso, Tex., had the upper hand with his nine-under-par 135. He held a one-stroke advantage over the 32-year-old Venturi, who shot the tournament's hottest round, a 65, Friday on the 6,380-yard par-72 Pensacola Country Club course.

Venturi, one of the top stars of tournament golf in the late 1950s when he scored 10 victories, hasn't won since the 1960 Milwaukee Open. Most of the intervening time he has been hampered by a muscle spasm.

However, Hawkins has been through a much longer dry spell. He has been a consistent money winner and 20 times a runnerup, but won his only 72-hole championship in 1956, the Oklahoma City Open.

Lurking right behind the front runners is defending champion Arnold Palmer, who has won 40 championships but is still looking for his first title this year. Palmer, who shot a 68 Friday, carded a 137 total along with Miller Barber, a bespectacled tour player from Texarkana, Tex., who is still trying to enter the winner's circle.

Also hot in pursuit of the $4,000 first money are three tour veterans with 138—George Bayer, Bill Collins and Doug Sanders, who won the Pensacola Open in 1962.

First round leader John Barnum slipped to a 73 and dropped into a seven-man tie at 140.

Sen. Young Endorsed By AFL-CIO Of Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Sen. Stephen M. Young, D - Ohio, seeking re-election, has won endorsement from the Ohio AFL-CIO in his May 5 primary race with Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr.

The AFL-CIO cited Young for "his exemplary record on behalf of legislation to advance Ohio citizens.

"The labor movement finds it extremely difficult under such circumstances to pass over the loyalty of a true friend at a time of need without rallying to his support," the statement said.

Oklahoma State Coach Eyes Victory No. 700

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's been a struggle, but Hank Iba, one of the best known coaches in college basketball, finally may notch the 700th victory of his coaching career tonight.

"The Iron Duke" of Oklahoma State, as Iba is called, sends his Cowboys against Kansas in an effort to join Adolph Rupp of Kentucky, Ed Diddle of Western Kentucky and the retired Phog Allen of Kansas in the select 700-victory circle.

No. 700 seemed a cinch for Iba a month ago after the Cowboys chalked up victory No. 698. But then followed four straight defeats to Nebraska, Iowa State, Missouri and Colorado. The Cowboys finally hit No. 699 last week against Nebraska.

Things went according to form Friday night as unbeaten and top-ranked UCLA won its 26th straight, fourth - ranked Duke reached the final of the ACC championship tourney and fifth-ranked Wichita beat Drake in the playoff to determine the Missouri Valley Conference representative in the NCAA tourney.

UCLA withstood a late rally by Southern California to down the Trojans 91-81 and complete its regular season without a blemish. Duke defeated North Carolina 65-49 and needs only to defeat Wake Forest in the ACC final tonight to qualify for the NCAA. Wichita overcame Drake 58-50 in a close game until Kelly Pete put the Shockers ahead for good at 44-42.

Immediately after its defeat Drake accepted an invitation to play in the NIT at New York. That completed the 12-team NIT field, New Mexico having accepted a bid earlier in the day.

The San Francisco Dons won their 17th straight, 80-58 over Pepperdine while Wake Forest qualified for its ACC title game with Duke by defeating Clemson 86-64.

In other Friday games, Stanford defeated California 61-59 in overtime, Washington downed Washington State 57-52, Syracuse whipped Connecticut 58-49 and Providence rallied to defeat Brown 72-67 in a game that originally was scheduled for tonight.

Remaining Fallout Shelters Due Stocks

LISBON — Al Rutecki, Columbiana County Civil Defense director, said the recent Congressional action in refusing to approve fallout shelter funds for fiscal 1965 will have no effect on the current program working from funds already allocated through fiscal 1964.

He said there are 60 shelters designated in the county and emergency supplies are being moved into those not already stocked.

O'Hara Beats Own Indoor Mile Record

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Amazing Tom O'Hara lowered his own indoor mile record to 3:56.4 Friday night and confidently announced he possibly could have run two seconds faster.

Three weeks ago the 130-pound O'Hara knocked two seconds off Jim Beatty's indoor mark with a 3:56.5 in the New York AC Games at Madison Square Garden.

Last week in the Knights of Columbus Meet in the Garden he did 3:58.5, setting an indoor 1,500-meter mark of 3:43.6 en route.

He passed the 1,500 juncture in 3:41.6 Friday night.

Not until just before the race did the red - haired Irish lad know that Jim Irons of the Toronto Olympic Club was in the field primarily to pace him through the first half - mile — and what a job Irons did.

With Irons showing the way, O'Hara swung through the first quarter in 58.1 and hit the half with a sizzling 1:58.8.

Irons dropped back and O'Hara's most feared opponent on the board oval, Jim Grelle of the Los Angeles Track Club, moved up.

Then O'Hara opened up, passing the three-quarters in a remarkable 2:59.8. At this point, Grelle was a beaten man. O'Hara just cruised the final 440 in 56.6.

The 76-year-old hero of World War I entered the Jamestown hospital two weeks ago, suffering from dehydration and in a semicoma. It was the eighth time he has been in the hospital in 18 months.

Dr. Guy Pinckley said York hasn't fully recovered, but that his condition is much improved. He was discharged from the hospital Friday.

York won the Congressional Medal of Honor in 1918 after he single-handedly killed 25 Germans and captured 132 in the Argonne Forest.

THE HAGUE (AP)—Princess Irene of the Netherlands and Don Carlos de Bourbon Parma will be married sometime between Whitsuntide, May 17, and the first part of July, the government information service says.

The service said site of the ceremony hasn't been selected, but it is expected to be a Roman Catholic church. Irene abandoned the Dutch Reformed Church and was converted to Roman Catholicism. She gave up her rights of succession to the Dutch throne. Holland's royal family has been traditionally Protestant.

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay has a new name—"Muhammad Ali."

"I am honored," said the champion, who had announced earlier that he would follow the custom of fellow Black Muslims and be known as Cassius X.

NEW YORK (AP)—A $99,286 lien has been filed by the Internal Revenue Service against all property owned by actress Judy Holliday.

The service claims she owes that amount, including interest and penalties, on her 1957 income.

Miss Holliday wasn't available for comment on the claim, filed Friday.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Fifteen seniors were named Friday to the All - Northeastern District high school basketball squad by sports editors of Associated Press newspapers and radio-television stations in the area.

Ten players—one sophomore, one junior and eight seniors — were named to the area's Class A All-District team.

District teams in five other areas are being named by boards of sports editors, and the All - Ohio team will be picked from the six area squads by the district boards.

Serving with Chay on the board which evaluated information from the area's coaches and sports writers were Jack Patterson, Akron Beacon Journal; Lawrence Stolle, Youngstown Vindicator, and Jim Muzzy, WHBC, Canton.

Glenn Undergoes Treatment For Brain Concussion

Glenn, who bumped his head on a bathtub in his apartment Feb. 26, was transferred Friday from Columbus, Ohio, to Wilford Hall Hospital on Lackland Air Force Base.

The 42-year-old Ohio senatorial candidate, who quit the U.S. space program to go into politics, has been at the hospital several times previously to undergo physicals and tests as an astronaut.

Doctors would not speculate on how long he would be in Wilford Hall. However, Dr. Earl Brannon Jr., chief of orthopedic surgery, said in a news conference:

Endorsed For Judge

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Hamilton County Republican party has endorsed George S. Heitzler Jr. to succeed Municipal Court Judge Daniel C. Handley Jr., retiring after 21 years. Handley's successor will be named by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Only New York, Minnesota and Chicago topped the million mark in home attendance in the American League in 1963.

2 Share Lead In Pensacola Open At 135

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—Two victory-starved veterans of the golf tour wars — greying Fred Hawkins and dapper Ken Venturi—led the 69-pro field into the third round of the $30,000 Pensacola Open today.

Hawkins, a 40-year-old golfer from El Paso, Tex., had the upper hand with his nine-under-par 135. He held a one-stroke advantage over the 32-year-old Venturi, who shot the tournament's hottest round, a 65, Friday on the 6,380-yard par-72 Pensacola Country Club course.

Venturi, one of the top stars of tournament golf in the late 1950s when he scored 10 victories, hasn't won since the 1960 Milwaukee Open. Most of the intervening time he has been hampered by a muscle spasm.

However, Hawkins has been through a much longer dry spell. He has been a consistent money winner and 20 times a runnerup, but won his only 72-hole championship in 1956, the Oklahoma City Open.

Lurking right behind the front runners is defending champion Arnold Palmer, who has won 40 championships but is still looking for his first title this year. Palmer, who shot a 68 Friday, carded a 137 total along with Miller Barber, a bespectacled tour player from Texarkana, Tex., who is still trying to enter the winner's circle.

Also hot in pursuit of the $4,000 first money are three tour veterans with 138—George Bayer, Bill Collins and Doug Sanders, who won the Pensacola Open in 1962.

First round leader John Barnum slipped to a 73 and dropped into a seven-man tie at 140.

Sen. Young Endorsed By AFL-CIO Of Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Sen. Stephen M. Young, D - Ohio, seeking re-election, has won endorsement from the Ohio AFL-CIO in his May 5 primary race with Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr.

The endorsement was agreed on here Friday at a meeting of the state labor organization's leaders.

The AFL-CIO cited Young for "his exemplary record on behalf of legislation to advance Ohio citizens.

"The labor movement finds it extremely difficult under such circumstances to pass over the loyalty of a true friend at a time of need without rallying to his support," the statement said.

Oklahoma State Coach Eyes Victory No. 700

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's been a struggle, but Hank Iba, one of the best known coaches in college basketball, finally may notch the 700th victory of his coaching career tonight.

"The Iron Duke" of Oklahoma State, as Iba is called, sends his Cowboys against Kansas in an effort to join Adolph Rupp of Kentucky, Ed Diddle of Western Kentucky and the retired Phog Allen of Kansas in the select 700-victory circle.

No. 700 seemed a cinch for Iba a month ago after the Cowboys chalked up victory No. 698. But then followed four straight defeats to Nebraska, Iowa State, Missouri and Colorado. The Cowboys finally hit No. 699 last week against Nebraska.

Things went according to form Friday night as unbeaten and top-ranked UCLA won its 26th straight, fourth - ranked Duke reached the final of the ACC championship tourney and fifth-ranked Wichita beat Drake in the playoff to determine the Missouri Valley Conference representative in the NCAA tourney.

UCLA withstood a late rally by Southern California to down the Trojans 91-81 and complete its regular season without a blemish. Duke defeated North Carolina 65-49 and needs only to defeat Wake Forest in the ACC final tonight to qualify for the NCAA. Wichita overcame Drake 58-50 in a close game until Kelly Pete put the Shockers ahead for good at 44-42.

Immediately after its defeat Drake accepted an invitation to play in the NIT at New York. That completed the 12-team NIT field, New Mexico having accepted a bid earlier in the day.

The San Francisco Dons won their 17th straight, 80-58 over Pepperdine while Wake Forest qualified for its ACC title game with Duke by defeating Clemson 86-64.

In other Friday games, Stanford defeated California 61-59 in overtime, Washington downed Washington State 57-52, Syracuse whipped Connecticut 58-49 and Providence rallied to defeat Brown 72-67 in a game that originally was scheduled for tonight.

Remaining Fallout Shelters Due Stocks

LISBON — Al Rutecki, Columbiana County Civil Defense director, said the recent Congressional action in refusing to approve fallout shelter funds for fiscal 1965 will have no effect on the current program working from funds already allocated through fiscal 1964.

He said there are 60 shelters designated in the county and emergency supplies are being moved into those not already stocked.

O'Hara Beats Own Indoor Mile Record

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Amazing Tom O'Hara lowered his own indoor mile record to 3:56.4 Friday night and confidently announced he possibly could have run two seconds faster.

Three weeks ago the 130-pound O'Hara knocked two seconds off Jim Beatty's indoor mark with a 3:56.5 in the New York AC Games at Madison Square Garden.

Last week in the Knights of Columbus Meet in the Garden he did 3:58.5, setting an indoor 1,500-meter mark of 3:43.6 en route.

He passed the 1,500 juncture in 3:41.6 Friday night.

Not until just before the race did the red - haired Irish lad know that Jim Irons of the Toronto Olympic Club was in the field primarily to pace him through the first half - mile — and what a job Irons did.

With Irons showing the way, O'Hara swung through the first quarter in 58.1 and hit the half with a sizzling 1:58.8.

Irons dropped back and O'Hara's most feared opponent on the board oval, Jim Grelle of the Los Angeles Track Club, moved up.

Then O'Hara opened up, passing the three-quarters in a remarkable 2:59.8. At this point, Grelle was a beaten man. O'Hara just cruised the final 440 in 56.6.

The 76-year-old hero of World War I entered the Jamestown hospital two weeks ago, suffering from dehydration and in a semicoma. It was the eighth time he has been in the hospital in 18 months.

Dr. Guy Pinckley said York hasn't fully recovered, but that his condition is much improved. He was discharged from the hospital Friday.

York won the Congressional Medal of Honor in 1918 after he single-handedly killed 25 Germans and captured 132 in the Argonne Forest.

THE HAGUE (AP)—Princess Irene of the Netherlands and Don Carlos de Bourbon Parma will be married sometime between Whitsuntide, May 17, and the first part of July, the government information service says.

The service said site of the ceremony hasn't been selected, but it is expected to be a Roman Catholic church. Irene abandoned the Dutch Reformed Church and was converted to Roman Catholicism. She gave up her rights of succession to the Dutch throne. Holland's royal family has been traditionally Protestant.

"I am honored," said the champion, who had announced earlier that he would follow the custom of fellow Black Muslims and be known as Cassius X.

NEW YORK (AP)—A $99,286 lien has been filed by the Internal Revenue Service against all property owned by actress Judy Holliday.

The service claims she owes that amount, including interest and penalties, on her 1957 income.

Miss Holliday wasn't available for comment on the claim, filed Friday.

Glenn Undergoes Treatment For Brain Concussion

Glenn, who bumped his head on a bathtub in his apartment Feb. 26, was transferred Friday from Columbus, Ohio, to Wilford Hall Hospital on Lackland Air Force Base.

The 42-year-old Ohio senatorial candidate, who quit the U.S. space program to go into politics, has been at the hospital several times previously to undergo physicals and tests as an astronaut.

Doctors would not speculate on how long he would be in Wilford Hall. However, Dr. Earl Brannon Jr., chief of orthopedic surgery, said in a news conference:

Endorsed For Judge

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Hamilton County Republican party has endorsed George S. Heitzler Jr. to succeed Municipal Court Judge Daniel C. Handley Jr., retiring after 21 years. Handley's successor will be named by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Only New York, Minnesota and Chicago topped the million mark in home attendance in the American League in 1963.

OFF THE RECORD

"He should be up and underfoot in a day or two."

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. When laying rubber or asphalt tile, how can I make the job of cutting the individual squares easier?

A. By heating the tile square first — and an infra-red lamp is good for this. In the case of rubber tile, just about one minute under the lamp makes them easier to trim with either a knife or scissors. With asphalt tile, a longer time under the lamp will make it pliable and easy to trim.

Q. How can I remove perfume stains from my linen bureau scraf?

A. Apply peroxide of hydrogen, then launder.

Q. What can I do about expensive crystal gobiets that have become chipped at the edges?

A. There's really nothing you can do at home. They can, however, receive first aid treatment at a good glazier. Ask your favorite store where this can be done.

Q. How can I make a good, king-sized ashtray for my workshop?

A. Use an empty coffee tin. Make a lip for the cigarette or cigar by snipping two two-inch slits down from the top and bending out the cut section. Double over the sharp edges. Water or sand in the bottom of the tin will extinguish your smoke and also weight down your tray.

A. How can I avoid that grayish look that some dark dresses take on after laundering?

A. By adding a large amount of bluing to your final rinse.

Junior Editors Quiz on BIRDS

QUESTION: What makes the Arctic tern famous?

ANSWER: Terns are small, graceful birds related to the gulls. Their bodies are more slender and they are more active than the heavier built gulls. The Arctic tern is similar to the Common tern which nests along the Atlantic coast but it's forked tail is longer and its bill a bit shorter. A world champion flyer, the Arctic tern nests from northern New England to within 450 miles of the North Pole. After nesting, these birds head south and show up on the shores of the Antarctic continent, having travelled as far as 11,000 to 12,000 miles—further than any other migrating bird.

Why this enormous trip twice a year?

Some scientists think that sunlight acting on bird's bodies may trigger them to migrate at certain times. By flying as he does, the Arctic tern works in more hours of sunlight than any other animal since the sun shines continuously in both the Arctic and Antarctic at the times the terns are there. This may help them in gathering their food of small fish, insects and crustaceans.

FOR YOU TO DO: Color the large Arctic terns so you will know what they look like. Make the back and wings of the top bird pearl gray, with white tail and red bill. The bottom bird needs only bright red on feet and bill. Blue on the oceans will make the birds look real.

Bringing Up A Family

By DR. GARRY MYERS

Child Shouldn't Be Cross-Examined

We parents wish our children to accept the consequences of their own acts. So, naturally, when we suspect a child has done something he knew he shouldn't do, we question and cross-question him. We may begin this practice with the youngster about as soon as he can talk. At first, he readily confesses to a misdemeanor and we rebuke or punish him. After a few such experiences, he may conclude that he was rebuked or punished because he admitted to the misdemeanor; he told the truth. So he decides not to tell so much the next time, even to lie.

Dr. Garry Myers

Moreover, some parents suppose they should force the child to confess, to admit to a misdemeanor, even when the parent has the facts and knows the child is guilty. But, as a rule, this procedure doesn't prepare the child to be more ready to confess next time.

—:—

IS THERE ANY way left, then, for educating the child to accept the consequences of his own acts?

Yes, if we aim to help him get satisfaction from doing right in our presence and discomfort from doing wrong. But our human frailties may make it hard for us to further such education.

Of her son, 5½, a California mother writes:

"In conference yesterday with his kindergarten teacher, she told me he will not admit to any mistakes and will emphatically deny them if accused. For instance, if she sees him pushing someone on the playground, he will deny it even if she tells him she saw him.

In all other things in kindergarten (music, art, numbers) he excels.

I've noticed, too, in his behavior at home, that he will lie about almost any wrongdoing, sometimes accusing a brother, usually pretending not to know anything about it."

My reply in part:

IT IS CLEAR that both the teacher and you, in trying to force this child to admit to his own wrongdoings, made it easy for him to deny them.

Why did the teacher try to force that child to admit that he was pushing other children on the playground when she saw him do so? Why did she so tempt him to lie? Why did she not tell him in the first place what she saw him do and then deal with him as she saw fit?

At home, you apparently are having trials, questioning and cross-questioning that child. Do discontinue them. Be more vigilant and alert.

When you yourself apprehend him in a misdemeanor, tell him that he did it. Why ask him if you know?

My bulletins, "Honesty and Truthfulness in Children" and "A Parent's Prayer," may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Pennova IOOF Lodge Airs Plans For Carnival In June

Plans for sponsoring a carnival were studied at a meeting of Pennova Odd-Fellows Lodge 880 Thursday night at the East End IOOF Hall.

Carl Mumaw, committee chairman, reported Heck's Amusements will provide rides for the carnival, slated June 22-27 at the parking lot of the Thorofare market on Pennsylvania Ave. The company will furnish eight rides for adults and children.

Plans were also made for members to attend a rally of Odd Fellows Lodges of Beaver County March 14 at New Brighton. The first, second and third degrees will be exemplified, and one candidate from Pennova will receive the third degree.

John Shay was reported ill in Rochester General Hospital. Albert Walker has returned home from a hospital. James Johnston, noble grand, presided. Charles Lough was acting vice grand.

Homemade pie baked by Mrs. Ray Stillwell, was served with ice cream and coffee. The social committee plans to have similar lunches once each month after business.

Next meeting will be Thursday.

Aspirants Speak For GOP Group

LISBON — Four candidates spoke briefly Thursday night at a meeting of the Mid-County Republican Club in county GOP headquarters.

They were Galen Greenisen of Salem, Robert Kelm of Lisbon and Wilbur Stratton of Columbiana, all candidates for commissioner, and Dean Rose of Lisbon, running for clerk of courts. Atty. Donald Lewis, first vice president, presided.

Ford McQuilkin of Homeworth, county vice chairman, said tickets still are available for a dinner at Knox School next Friday in which Rep. Robert A. Taft Jr. will speak.

The club launched plans for a dance in April. William Seidner will be chairman. Bridge and 500 followed business. Prizes went to Mrs. Jewel Yost, Mrs. Charlotte Crothers, McQuilkin and Ray Davies. Lunch was served by Mrs. Pauline Gerwin, Mrs. Dorothy Kettlewell and Mrs. Elizabeth Polite. Next meeting will be April 2 at 8 p.m.

You can dip onion rings in slightly beaten egg and then in bread crumbs before frying. The bread crumbs make a pleasant change from the flour usually used for the coating.

Bringing Up A Family

By DR. GARRY MYERS

Child Shouldn't Be Cross-Examined

We parents wish our children to accept the consequences of their own acts. So, naturally, when we suspect a child has done something he knew he shouldn't do, we question and cross-question him. We may begin this practice with the youngster about as soon as he can talk. At first, he readily confesses to a misdemeanor and we rebuke or punish him. After a few such experiences, he may conclude that he was rebuked or punished because he admitted to the misdemeanor; he told the truth. So he decides not to tell so much the next time, even to lie.

Dr. Garry Myers

Moreover, some parents suppose they should force the child to confess, to admit to a misdemeanor, even when the parent has the facts and knows the child is guilty. But, as a rule, this procedure doesn't prepare the child to be more ready to confess next time.

—:—

IS THERE ANY way left, then, for educating the child to accept the consequences of his own acts?

Yes, if we aim to help him get satisfaction from doing right in our presence and discomfort from doing wrong. But our human frailties may make it hard for us to further such education.

Of her son, 5½, a California mother writes:

"In conference yesterday with his kindergarten teacher, she told me he will not admit to any mistakes and will emphatically deny them if accused. For instance, if she sees him pushing someone on the playground, he will deny it even if she tells him she saw him.

In all other things in kindergarten (music, art, numbers) he excels.

I've noticed, too, in his behavior at home, that he will lie about almost any wrongdoing, sometimes accusing a brother, usually pretending not to know anything about it."

My reply in part:

IT IS CLEAR that both the teacher and you, in trying to force this child to admit to his own wrongdoings, made it easy for him to deny them.

Why did the teacher try to force that child to admit that he was pushing other children on the playground when she saw him do so? Why did she so tempt him to lie? Why did she not tell him in the first place what she saw him do and then deal with him as she saw fit?

At home, you apparently are having trials, questioning and cross-questioning that child. Do discontinue them. Be more vigilant and alert.

When you yourself apprehend him in a misdemeanor, tell him that he did it. Why ask him if you know?

My bulletins, "Honesty and Truthfulness in Children" and "A Parent's Prayer," may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Pennova IOOF Lodge Airs Plans For Carnival In June

Plans for sponsoring a carnival were studied at a meeting of Pennova Odd Fellows Lodge 880 Thursday night at the East End IOOF Hall.

Carl Mumaw, committee chairman, reported Heck's Amusements will provide rides for the carnival, slated June 22-27 at the parking lot of the Thorofare market on Pennsylvania Ave. The company will furnish eight rides for adults and children.

Plans were also made for members to attend a rally of Odd Fellows Lodges of Beaver County March 14 at New Brighton. The first, second and third degrees will be exemplified, and one candidate from Pennova will receive the third degree.

James Thomas, recording secretary, read a list of special future events of the Warren lodges from a magazine published each month for lodge members in Warren.

John Shay was reported ill in Rochester General Hospital. Albert Walker has returned home from a hospital. James Johnston, noble grand, presided. Charles Lough was acting vice grand.

Homemade pie baked by Mrs. Ray Stillwell, was served with ice cream and coffee. The social committee plans to have similar lunches once each month after business.

Next meeting will be Thursday.

Aspirants Speak For GOP Group

LISBON — Four candidates spoke briefly Thursday night at a meeting of the Mid-County Republican Club in county GOP headquarters.

They were Galen Greenisen of Salem, Robert Kelm of Lisbon and Wilbur Stratton of Columbiana, all candidates for commissioner, and Dean Rose of Lisbon, running for clerk of courts. Atty. Donald Lewis, first vice president, presided.

Ford McQuilkin of Homeworth, county vice chairman, said tickets still are available for a dinner at Knox School next Friday in which Rep. Robert A. Taft Jr. will speak.

The club launched plans for a dance in April. William Seidner will be chairman. Bridge and 500 followed business. Prizes went to Mrs. Jewel Yost, Mrs. Charlotte Crothers, McQuilkin and Ray Davies. Lunch was served by Mrs. Pauline Gerwin, Mrs. Dorothy Kettlewell and Mrs. Elizabeth Polite. Next meeting will be April 2 at 8 p.m.

You can dip onion rings in slightly beaten egg and then in bread crumbs before frying. The bread crumbs make a pleasant change from the flour usually used for the coating.
